PRICE-ASSISTING LOANS FORESEEN

AAA Officials Had Hoped To Avoid Lending On Cotton
This Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Officials of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration said today that a decline in cotton prices this week had brought the government "dangerously close" to a situation which would require it to provide price-stabilizing loans on this year's crop.

Already holding more than 7,100,000 bales of cotton put up as security for previous loans, AAA officials had hoped to avoid loans this year.

They had explained that a new loan would add to the government's huge stocks and possibly retard exports and domestic consumption.

E. D. White, AAA cotton economist, said today that a further price drop of about a one-fourth of a cent a pound would make it mandatory, under provisions of the new law, that the government provide loans. The AAA has authority to fix the loan rate between about 8.27 and 11.92 cents a pound.

The law requires establishment of a loan program whenever the average price of cotton on the principal markets falls below 52 per cent of "parity," a price goal set up in the legislation.

Officials said the present parity price was 13.9 cents a pound. This price, which would invoke loans, would be about 8.27 cents a pound. The price on the principal markets averaged 8.49 yesterday, compared with 8.53 a week earlier.

While said the federal crop reporting board's forecast of this year's production, to be made public Monday, could only be a factor sending prices below the mandatory loan level.

He explained that if the report were to forecast a crop in excess of current cotton market expectations, the price could be expected to decline. Private forecasts of the crop have averaged about 11,300,000 bales, or about the amount of American cotton consumed in this country and abroad during the past 12 months.

AAA officials said that, if loans were to become mandatory, they expected many cotton growers would demand a loan rate as high as 10 cents on the 9-cent-a-pound rate on last year's record crop. Such a rate would tend to put a bottom under prices, which would place American cotton at a price disadvantage in foreign markets, they declared.

Officials indicated that if the loans became mandatory the rate would be "near" the minimum.

LECHE REJECTS STRIKE PROPOSAL

As a means of reaching a just settlement I suggest the matter be submitted to arbitration, one arbitrator to be appointed by your company, one by the union and these two to select the third."

Governor Leche came here Thursday, accompanied by state police, to back demands of a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor for a 30 cents an hour wage for the strikers. Picket lines were thrown around the closed Hammond and Roseland plants.

Earlier today the governor made public an exchange of telegrams between him and Wilson.

"From your public statement and conduct of highway patrolmen accompanying you while in Roseland," Wilson's telegram to Leche read, "we presume you desire this mill closed down. Accordingly, we are closing all operations in the plant this afternoon."

"An overwhelming majority of the workers are satisfied and desire to continue their employment but to prevent possible injury and bloodshed that might result from assembling a mob of outsiders that now appears imminent the plant will remain closed until the workers have your assurance as governor that they will be protected in their constitutional rights to work for a living."

To this Leche replied: "Your assumption that I desire Roseland plant shut down is erroneous as I would like to see every plant in Louisiana running full blast under conditions fair to the working men and women."

Your statement that assembly of mob or outsiders appears imminent is without foundation as far as I know and the only armed men on the scene were those within your plant. "Your statement that an overwhelming majority of the workers are satisfied seems answered by their own action in striking."

My appearance at Roseland was only as an interested spectator and state police were there to prevent disorder such as occurred at Hammond where peaceful pickets were attacked and shot at. "I have settled numerous labor disputes as governor and am willing to assist in every way, while I have no connection with or authority over either your company or the workmen, I cannot help, as I have publicly stated, in sympathizing with white men and women who are worked from ten to twelve hours a day at wages from ten to fifteen cents per hour."

The strike workers were being fed from soup kitchens built by Leche and attended by strikers' wives at $3 a day. The governor said he would discuss the strike Monday night in a radio address.

head of the Independent Communist Labor league.

Martin was grim-faced as he slowly announced the verdict of the 18 members of the board who tried the officers. None of the defendants appeared before the board at the resumption of their trial.

The U. A. W. president said Wells' penalty was lighter because he "never was identified with the so-called communist conspiracy."

Wells incurred disfavor, Martin explained, because of his opposition to a group insurance plan for the union membership proposed by Martin but will be allowed to resume his vice-presidency September 13.

The trial opened July 26 and dragged on with little accomplished for several days due to bickering between the pro and anti-Martin factions in the union leadership. Finally the board abandoned the secret hearing and ordered counsel for each side to file briefs covering their evidence, with arguments on these filed for today.

Expulsion of the officers had appeared a foregone conclusion for some time and was made more probable when they defied an ultimatum to appear before the board or be convicted of the charges against them. Martin had said previously that if they failed to complete their defense a verdict of guilty was a certainty.

WOMEN GIVE FOUNTAIN TO TECH

In a circular pool in front of the main building of Louisiana Tech this decorative fountain has been erected as a gift of the Ruston Panhellenic association, which includes alumnae of national Greek-letter social organizations. The statue was made by Duncan Ferguson, an art professor of Louisiana State university. Miss Elizabeth Bethes, head of the Tech art department, was chairman of the women's committee arranging for the fountain. The Panhellenic association, of which Mrs. Mary Olive Green of Ruston is president, raised funds for the gift by staging various benefit activities. The fountain is one of several projects sponsored by the sorority members in Ruston.

RAIN AND WEEVILS HURT COTTON CROP

ATLANTA, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Rain and boll weevils are dimming the cotton crop prospects in many sections of the southeast.

From North Carolina to Louisiana agricultural experts reported crop deterioration from the wet weather that is favorable to weevils and other pests.

Commissioner Harry D. Wilson of the Louisiana department of agriculture said the situation in his state was "pretty serious."

"The rains prevent dusting for boll weevils and other pests," he explained. "The farmers dust in the morning and an hour later the dust is washed off by the rains. In addition to the boll weevil, which is increasing, the army worm has appeared. Prospects for cotton farmers are far from bright."

In Arkansas, the Pulaski county (Little Rock) farm reported it was threatened with complete loss of its 175-acre cotton crop as a result of heavy weevil infestation and that similar conditions existed at adjoining farms. Rains through the state have favored pests.

The Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture J. C. Bolton said rainfall had resulted in 30 per cent infestation by boll weevils in the cotton of that state.

Similar reports of weevil infestation were made in North and South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia, with predictions of cotton loss.

NEGRO BISHOP TO PREACH AT MARTIN TEMPLE HERE

Rt. Rev. A. J. Hamlett of Kansas City, Kans., presiding bishop of the seventh episcopal district of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church, will speak this evening at 8 o'clock at Martin Temple, corner of Nineteenth and Adams streets. Holy Communion will be celebrated at the service.

Bishop Hamlett recently attended the C. M. E. district conference at Oak Grove and Mer Rouge and the visit to Monroe is his first since his appointment to preside over the local area.

Special music will be rendered by the Martin Temple choir and the public is invited to attend the service.

PROTECTION ASKED AGAINST SHAKEDOWN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Republican National committee, called today to the Civil Service commission to-day to protect federal workers from a "shakedown" which it said had been undertaken by Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., treasurer of the Democratic National committee.

The committee made public what it said was a copy of a letter sent out over Quayle's signature to civil service as well as non-civil service employees. It said the Democratic treasurer had written as follows:

"We have before us this year a very essential congressional election which is most vital to the Democratic administration."

"Your national committee, therefore, is charged with a grave responsibility and gifts are needed to assure another New Deal victory."

"Now, under these circumstances, may I ask you to lend your assistance in the interest of the Democratic party. I will be happy indeed to accept it personally should you prefer to call at my office."

The Republican committee said Quayle had sent out a less firm letter previously, but that the response to it apparently had not been encouraging.

Under civil service regulations, the committee declared, no federal employee was under any obligation to contribute to any political party.

LOCAL DOCTORS TO SPEAK AT TALLULAH

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Speakers for the Tri-Parish Medical association meeting to be held here Tuesday, August 8, are Dr. John Snelling of Monroe, whose subject will be "Medical and Surgical Aspects of Thrombocytopenic Purpura," Dr. J. E. Walworth of Monroe, leading the discussion; Dr. A. A. Herold of Shreveport, chairman of the American Medical association, "A Story of Diabetes Mellitus with Evaluation of Present Day Treatment," with discussions by Dr. Paul Abramson of Shreveport, vice-president of the State Medical society; Dr. J. B. Vaughn of Monroe, councillor, "The Reasons for the Change in Medical Economics," with Dr. Joseph Whitaker of St. Joseph, leading discussions.

Dr. E. O. Edgerton of Tallulah, will preside over the business session and Dr. Will Hamley of Lake Providence, will serve as toastmaster at the banquet to be given at the Post Inn cafe here. Physicians from East and West Carroll, Madison and Tensas parishes south Arkansas and Mississippi are expected.

The Mississippi department will lead the Los Angeles parade because it won for the second year the national membership drive. Mississippians also led the New York parade last year.

For expenses of the trip the legislature appropriated $25,000. Governor White requested the appropriation as a means of gaining for the state "invaluable publicity."

Appointment of Walter Lee of Jackson, grand chef past of the Forty and Eight, as director of the caravan was announced today by Wilkes Davis, state legion commander.

Devis said one float in the Mississippi caravan would symbolize peace, general theme of the parade, while the other four would depict the state's "historic, cultural, industrial and recreational development and possibilities."

SINGING CONVENTION SLATED FOR AUGUST 14

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—The first singing convention to be held in Madison parish is scheduled to take place here Sunday, August 14, at the Tallulah High school auditorium.

L. L. Robinson, of Holly Ridge, president of the Ridge and Parish Singing convention, will preside, and C. E. Walker of Tallulah is in charge of arrangements.

Over 1,000 singers from north Louisiana are expected. Features of the meeting will be music by several quartets, Vaughn-Melody girls of Anseley, the Chatham-Melody quartet and the Bastrop quartet of Bastrop.

IRISH REGIMENT IS REVIEWED BY FLIER

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Bill wearing his oil-smeared brown leather jacket, Douglas Corrigan forgot his slight chest injury today and motored to Camp Smith at Peekskill, N. Y., to review the "Fighting Irish" of the famous old 8th infantry regiment.

The 31-year-old aviator, who set his methodist Oak Grove church on fire in Dublin, Ireland, in his 1929 "old crate," after the California, returned to New York to rest a bit before attending a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Astor sponsored by the Dublin society of New York. Fifty-seven Irish organizations were represented at the affair.

The flier today received a telephone call from Mayor LaGuardia, who expressed regret at Corrigan's chest injury and invited him to be his guest again when he returns Thursday from visits to Boston, Newark, Baltimore and Washington, D. C.

In the crush of wild-cheering thousands during yesterday's parade and reception Corrigan suffered his injury, diagnosed as a torn cartilage.

After leaving New York en route west, except for receptions in Milwaukee, St. Louis, San Antonio, Galveston, Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Francisco and the Cleveland air race, he has practically no commitments at all.

OAK GROVE CHARGE HOLDS CONFERENCE

OAK GROVE, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—The third quarterly conference of the Methodist Oak Grove charge was held last Wednesday night at the Locust Grove church, with Presiding Elder Rev. John A. Monroe, in charge. Willie Roberts of Kilbourne, served as acting secretary for the meeting.

Superintendents were elected for the church at Oak Grove as follows: C. H. Neely, church superintendent; Mrs. D. W. Kelly, adult superintendent; Mrs. R. M. Grady, young people's superintendent; Mrs. Lonnie James, children's superintendent.

Mrs. Mary B. Thompson was elected to the board of Christian education and other members will be appointed later. Mr. Roberts will be church superintendent at Kilbourne and B. Gunter will serve as superintendent at Locust Grove.

Those attending the conference from Oak Grove were Messadems James, James, D. W. Kelly, L. J. James, Neely, B. Thompson, M. Copeland and C. H. Neely and Rev. E. B. Emerich.

The fourth quarterly conference will be held at Oak Grove in October.

In California all applicants for teaching certificates must present health certificates.

AAA TO PURCHASE COTTON FOR EXPERIMENTAL USE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The agricultural adjustment administration authorized today the expenditure of $250,000 for purchase of cotton and cotton goods for experimental projects being carried on in 41 states to find new commercial uses for the south's principal crop.

The experiments are being made by state and federal agencies as well as private non-profit organizations, agricultural colleges and state experiment stations.

Last year the A. A. A. spent $135,000 for cotton materials used in such experimental work.

Mrs. Edwin Bevens, past chairman of the rural urban corporation, Helena, Ark., will speak on "One Nation Indivisible" and Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of "Progressive Farmer," of New York City, will appear on the program Wednesday at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau federation, will deliver an address Thursday at 10:30 a.m. and Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of the department of agriculture, will speak on the program with Mrs. Sewell.

ATTEND SHORT COURSE
TALLULAH, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Members of 4-H clubs who accompanied C. E. Hester, parish agriculture agent, and Miss Bertha Keller, home demonstration agent, to Baton Rouge for the annual short course were Lee Reno Renfrow, Juanita Couch and Jessie Lee Florence, who took part in poultry judging; Frank Sistrunk, Frank Ritchie and C. M. Ritchie, Jr., livestock judging, and Maxine Deason, executive council and 4-H Day.

WINS 4-H HONOR

James Avant, 4-H club member from the Eureka group of Ouachita parish, placed first in the individual competition in 4-H club work for the past three years and served at one time as president of the Eureka club.

The livestock judging team, which represented the parish, placed second in the team competition against 41 other parish groups. Ouachita also placed third in the contest to determine the best crop judging team.

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
St. John and Grammer Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Associate

Two subjects of universal interest will engage the attention of the pastor and people of the First Baptist church Sunday. At the morning hour the subject will be "Heaven." The choir will sing the beautiful anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say." The pastor's subject at the evening hour will be "Hell." He will present not what people say and think about hell, but what the Scriptures teach. Many hurtful heresies that injure the church today hold unscriptural views on this subject. As I see it, it is a matter of belief, not of fact, and find out later that there isn't one thing to think there isn't one and find out later (and too late) that there is one. Come and invite others to hear this subject that is not popular but mighty scriptural. All other services will be held at the usual time: Sunday school, 9:45; the deacons at 3 p.m.; B. T. U. at 6:30; Brotherhood at the same hour. The young people's choir will have charge of the music at the evening service. Preparations for Youth week, August 21-28, move on. We are looking forward to the coming of Chester Swor, one of the most dynamic personalities it has been our pleasure to hear.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison and D'Arbonne Streets
Sherrone Addition
Vernon C. Groes, Pastor

Your attention is called to the new time of the services, which will be in effect for the remainder of the summer. Sunday school and Bible class at 9:45 a.m. Church service at 10:30 a.m. We cordially invite everyone to worship with us.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson and Wood Streets
Walter C. Scott, Minister

We gladly welcome you to our church home, trusting that if you are seeking Christ you will find Him here; if sorrowing you will receive comfort; if troubled in spirit you will gain the blessings of peace. If discouraged you will rejoice in hope, if friendless find companionship and Christian love. That these blessings may be your portion is our prayer. You are cordially invited to worship with us at the 11 o'clock service on Sunday. There will be no evening services in this church during the month of August. Our minister will be out of town during this month and we will have with us other ministers of the conference to fill the pulpit each Sunday morning. Today, Rev. F. J. McCoy of Winnetka Methodist church, will be with us and administer the communion. Every member should be on hand to welcome him. On Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. H. L. Johnson will hold the third quarterly conference in our church. Splendid reports will be heard from all departments of the church. A large attendance is expected. The Women's Missionary society will meet in circles Tuesday at 3 p.m.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third Street
L. L. Yeager, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian endeavor at 7 p.m. Miss Irene Waldrop will have charge of the program. Evening service, which will be evangelistic, at 7:45 o'clock. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Circle one will meet with Mrs. G. B. Haynes, circle two will meet with Mrs. M. B. Hearne. Mid-week prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Annie Truett will lead the service.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
225 Thomas Street
G. M. And Mrs. Aklin, Pastors

A warm welcome is extended to worship with us Sunday. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Mrs. S. P. Quigley, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a.m. sermon by Rev. Aklin. Young people's meeting at 6:45 p.m. Evening evangelistic service at 7:45 p.m. Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock the Sunday cabinet will meet in the home of Mrs. J. E. Wright, Richmond street. Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., Rev. and Mrs. Aklin will keep open house to all members and friends of the church at 309 Vermont street Wednesday 7:45 p.m. mid-week prayer service, Friday 7:45 p.m. choir practice.

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammer and Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

Rev. Kenneth Stewart, Rayville will preach in the morning. He is associated with the home mission committee, working under the supervision of Rev. H. L. Walton, Rayville. The preacher of the day is an able and effective pulpiteer and the worshipers will receive from him something to think about. His theme is "Jesus and Matthew." During the month an earnest effort will be made to maintain the Sabbath school attendance. Will you cooperate with the officers and teachers? The men meet in the Paramount theater; the other classes in the church buildings. A most cordial invitation is extended to you to worship with us.

SINGING CONVENTION
SLATED THIS AFTERNOON

The monthly singing convention of the Missouri Pacific booster club will be held at the clubhouse, Ouachita avenue, this afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock and continuing to 4 p.m. Loudspeakers will be used so that all can hear the program from their parked automobiles if they so desire, stated S. A. Moss, chief booster.

It is expected that there will be soloists, duets, quartets and other groups present who will participate actively on the program.

LEAVE FOR WEST
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Evans and Noah Turnipseed of this city, and Miss Molly May of Jackson, Miss., left early in the week on a western motor trip. They will visit in Texas, Mexico, California and Colorado.

PRINTERS PLAN PICNIC
Monroe local number 546 of the Typographical union will hold its annual picnic this morning at 11 o'clock at Butler's park, three miles west of Calhoun. All members are urged to attend.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Grammer Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Pastor

Services for the eighth Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be said at 7:30 a.m. Primry department of the church school will assemble at 8:30 a.m. and a choral celebration of the Eucharist and sermon by the pastor at 9:30 a.m. Evening will be said and sermon preached at 4 p.m. in St. David's, Rayville. There is a marked coincidence between the epistle and gospel for the eighth Sunday after Trinity, "The sons of God," says the former, "are

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT AT TECH EXPANDED

RUSTON, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Expansion of the Louisiana Tech department of home economics into a school of home economics, offering training in five distinct fields, and the employing of three additional teachers for the new school have been announced by President E. S. Richardson. The school of home economics will be under the direction of Miss Helen Graham, who for several years has been head of the department of home economics, formerly affiliated with the school of education.

The five types of study to be available under the new home economics program this fall will be home management and child development, institutional management, clothing and textiles, foods and nutrition, and home economics education.

This fall will be the first time for Tech to offer courses in institutional management—which prepares students for managing cafeterias and dining rooms in various kinds of institutions. The campus cafeteria will be used as the laboratory for these classes to be conducted by Miss Irene Tolliver, one of the new appointees.

In connection with the child development course, Miss Alma May Clark has been employed to direct work in a new nursery school on the campus. This program will be conducted in the present home management house here.

Additional work in the field of clothing and textiles and in home economics education will be offered through the employment of Miss Ruth Richardson as a member of the faculty.

TECH OFFERS FIVE EXTENSION CLASSES

RUSTON, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Five extension classes offered at Louisiana Tech for the first time as post-summer-session courses have attracted an enrollment of 127 students. D. G. Armstrong, director of the extension division, has announced.

Each student is enrolled in but one of the five classes, which are meeting four hours a day for nine days, beginning on Friday, August 5. The total enrollment considerably exceeded expectations, Mr. Armstrong said.

Members of the regular Tech teaching staff are conducting the classes on the campus. The courses and teachers include a class in Louisiana history by G. W. McGinty; physical education, Dr. H. Duggins; social psychology, Dr. Gustaf Freden; general mathematics, E. M. Shirley, and safety in transportation, Dennis P. Nash.

Other teachers will be on vacation until September 12, when the fall semester opens here.

66 ARRESTS IN JULY

BISHOP OF NATCHEZ TO BLESS SHRIMP FLEET

BILOXI, Miss., Aug. 6.—(P)—The annual blessing of the shrimp fleet here will take place Sunday at 11 a.m. in Sacred Heart parish, North Biloxi.

The Most Rev. R. O. Gerow, bishop of Natchez, will pontificate at the solemn high mass.

The ceremonies will be conducted at an outdoor altar erected on the north shore of Back bay where D'Arbonne landed in 1699.

PLACED UNDER BOND
JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 6.—(P)—Police Justice W. T. Horton today bound Earl Burch, 21, over to the grand jury under $3,000 bond in connection with a $5,000 burglary at the Mississippi Power and Light company here last week. Burch, a meter reader and collector for the company, waived examination at a preliminary hearing.

The Japs Are Slipping

It would be a real pleasure for every American to go to Helsingfors in 1940 to attend the Olympic Games. The change from Tokyo suggests that, notwithstanding all of its cruelty and horror and inhumanity, the war in China is not without its advantages after all. We would have had no enthusiasm for the Tokyo Olympics, but with Helsingfors it is different.

We Americans have reason to think highly of Finland. It is a well-ordered, honest little land, rugged and unpretentious, but decent and with a sense of moral responsibility. Since the World War the Finns have made extraordinary progress and have shown a fine example of peace and good government to the rest of the world.

The spirit in which nations meet in the interests of sport should be, though it often is not, one of wholesome friendliness. Finland and its Scandinavian neighbors have most impressively exemplified this spirit during recent years, and Helsingfors, accordingly, makes a particularly appropriate setting for the Olympic Games.

On the other hand, many observers of Far Eastern affairs have been predicting that the Chinese war would prove the downfall of modern Japan, a prediction that brought much disagreement from those whose knowledge of Oriental affairs was perfunctory.

However, it begins to look as if the experts may have had something after all. Japan was not prepared for a war of several years' duration in China. Her achievements to date in that unhappy land have been disappointing to the Nipponese and far too costly.

And now Japan is faced by the task of pacifying Russia if she wants to hold on to stolen Manchuria. Events of the past week indicate that this seems a hopeless objective. Clashes along the border have furthered to add to the difficulties of Japan's militaristic ambitions. In any war with the Bolsheviks, Japan stands a 100 per cent chance of being ruined financially and losing the gains of her aggression of seven years ago.

Japan most certainly occupies an unenviable position in the spotlight today.

TAKE IT SLOW AND EASY

The question of whether it is the heat or the humidity that makes us feel the way we do during these torrid days of August is one that may be classified as academic and the answer is of no importance. It is sufficient to know that the thermometer is hovering near 90; that the pavements burn as we tread them; that the perspiration oozes, and, to reduce our bill of complaint to compact form, we are extremely uncomfortable. The only important question is what to do?

It can be answered in a few plain words. Take things easy. Summer is properly a time for play and recreation. And the play should be of an easy-going variety, nothing designed to make the player hot and bothered. There are a great many profound students of the problem who say that the ideal form of recreation on a hot summer's day is to lie on the soft grass in the cool shade of a large tree and fall asleep. There is another school of thought that supports the theory that the perfect thing is to assume a recumbent position on the beach and permit the cool waves to wash over the human form. In addition, there are those who insist there can be no better formula for a hot day than an easy chair in a spot where a little breeze is stirring, an uninterrupted succession of cooling drinks and a mystery story with no less than seven baffling murders.

However, there can be no hard and fast rule in meeting the challenge presented by the combined forces of heat and humidity. The thing to do is take it easy, or as easy as the stern realities of life will permit, and if no more satisfactory means of getting cooled off is available it is always possible to join the children in the back yard for a pleasant spell under a refreshing stream from the garden hose.

HONEY

There is one agricultural product that is in a honey position, with no carry-over surplus to hamper marketing. It is honey. The bureau of agricultural economics reports in its monthly bulletins that practically the entire 1937 supply has been consumed, and it was no small supply—something like 160,000,000 pounds. Those who enjoy astronomical computations might find satisfaction in figuring out from how many flowers the nectar had to be extracted to make that amount of honey, on the basis of 125 heads of red clover yielding one gram of sugar.

An even greater production by the nation's busy bees is looked for this season, but it isn't anything to worry about. Most of us think of honey as an article primarily for direct consumption, but an increasing amount is going into manufactured food products and new industrial uses are being found for it. It is used in cigarettes and chewing tobacco, in shaving creams and in golf balls.

The outlets are ample for a long time to come and undoubtedly new ones will be found. Maybe the problem of overproduction that burdens the growers of such staple commodities as cotton and wheat and corn may ultimately be solved through similar expansion of uses. It would be a lot more profitable than stabilization of prices through restriction of output.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Every stalk of corn is a throbbing nerve for the department of agriculture these days. Here's why:

If the crop is as large as it threatens to be, the department will be forced to hold an election in the corn belt on whether to impose painful marketing quotas. And the election will come in the heat of the toughest primary fights in the country.

The administration is not anxious just now to mix corn and politics. The trouble is that so many varieties of objections have arisen over the corn restrictions already in effect that some department officials fear the farmers might reject marketing quotas. That kind of defeat to the farm plan, coming right in the heat of the primaries, would be bad political medicine. The farm law says that if the corn crop and carryover ever reach a certain emergency level, the farmers must be asked to vote on whether to impose drastic marketing quotas.

Corn Weather Good

The July estimate indicated that point had already been reached and passed—if the weather holds good. And the weather has been good. Not in a long time has the weather been so good for corn. The results is that the department is fearful that the August 10 crop report will show even more corn than was estimated in the July report.

These are the figures:
Emergency level (17.1 per cent above estimated export and consumption demands)—2,825,000,000 bushels.

1938 crop (July estimate), plus carryover—2,832,000,000 bushels.
That means, if other factors should remain unchanged, the department would have to call the much-feared elections, because of a 7,000,000-bushel excess.

The department has three avenues by which it may escape calling the election.

First, if the August report shows a smaller corn harvest, that may save the day. Present prospects give not much hope there.

Second, the department can estimate a smaller carryover than the 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels now forecast. But those figures can't be juggled much.

Third, the department has a little leeway in determining the "emergency level." That avenue is the brightest department officials see. By crowding the "emergency level" higher they can face a bigger crop without being forced to call for marketing quotas.

Smack Into Primaries

The farm law has provided many more spots in the farm belt. First off, farmers this spring were required to reduce acreage 25 per cent. Some complained of inequality in allotting acreage. The "Corn Belt Liberty League," originating in Illinois and spreading to Indiana, Iowa and Missouri, objects to "regimentation" of the farmer. And further, some farmers protest that restrictions apply only to the midwest corn belt.

If the August 10 report indicates as much corn as some suspect it may, and the department within 25 days thereafter holds an election to determine whether marketing quotas are to be imposed, that would hit right in the midst of the September primaries.

THE WORLD'S BRAINS

By BRUCE CATTON

It isn't often that an American can find anything in particular to cheer about in a solemn pronouncement from one of Mussolini's house organs. But the recent editorial concerning collars and ties, printed in Virginio, Gayda's "Giornale d'Italia," is something else again.

The collar and tie, said this Italian newspaper, must go. They are non-Italian: more than that, they are "French evils," imported from a less virile land. By constricting the neck, they check "cerebral circulation," cause poor eyesight, and keep the brain from getting proper nourishment. Abolish them altogether, and clear thinking and cool heads will be much more prevalent.

Strictly interpreted, this theory ought to mean that sailors, cowboys and practically all females are among the smartest and most coolheaded members of the human race—which, for all we know, may be quite true. But whether it is the collar and tie which are at fault or just plain human perversity, it is at least gratifying to see an authoritative Italian voice raised in favor of more and better brain work.

The principal trouble in this world lately has been the fact that people have taken to think with their hearts rather than with their heads. Getting into a profound and complicated jam, the world seems to be turning its back on intelligence and relying on naked emotion.

That explains, no doubt, the enormous popularity of alogans and catch phrases in every land. People don't want to reason their way out of their troubles; they simply want something clear and unmistakable to be mad at.

So Russia rolls up the thunderheads of its wrath against "wreckers," Trotskyists, and unuseful and nameless traitors. Germany vents its fury on the hapless Jew. Italy takes it out on the perfidious Spaniard. And in our own fair land—

Well, we are of diverse minds here, so we don't have any national scapegoat.

One group whips up its rage against "economic royalists," and another opens fire on "radicals" of high and low degree; one group hates the C. I. O. and another group hates the National Association of Manufacturers. And altogether this cross-crisis of misdirected peevishness does us precisely what it does to Europe—it keeps us from getting together calmly, admitting that we are all in the same boat, and hunting cooperatively for a workable solution.

Sooner or later we are all going to have to come to that. Our emotions are untrustworthy props in time of crisis; the longer we rely on them, the harder will be the job of laying them aside and calling on our brains for help. A world that can do no better in times like these than hunt for objects for its wrath is in a sorry state.

A BOOK REVIEW

HE WONDERS WHAT HAS BECOME OF IT

It is a strange and fantastic book that Upton Sinclair has written, in "Our Lady." Some readers may find it irrelevant, even scurrilous; yet that, obviously, was not Mr. Sinclair's intention, and I believe that he has handled his unusual story deftly enough to avoid giving offense.

Briefly, the story is this:
The Virgin Mary appears on earth today, in Los Angeles. She meets and talks with a learned priest, who is able to speak the archaic Aramaic dialect spoken in Palestine 2000 years ago, and she serves as her guide during her visit.

And although he explains everything to her, she does not recognize anything in modern American civilization as having the most remote connection with herself or her Son!

How the story ends is something you had best learn for yourself—if the thing interests you—by reading Mr. Sinclair's book; to summarize it here would be, probably, to distort it and convey a wrong impression of the book.

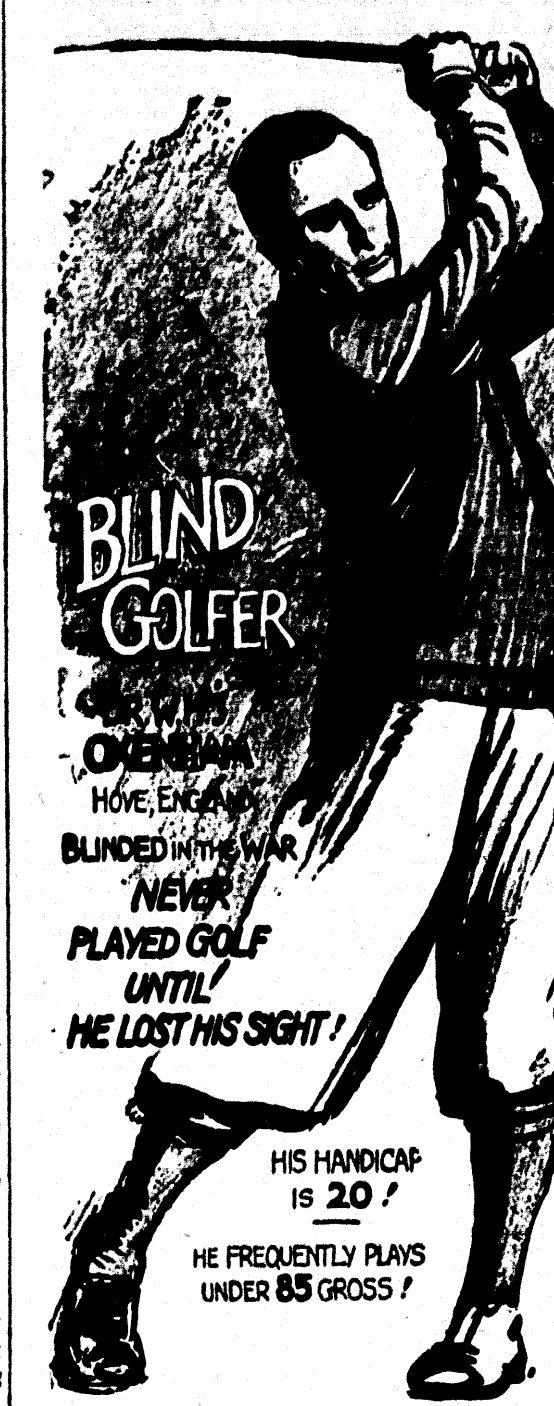

I can only say that Mr. Sinclair has written an engrossing and urbane satire; a book which is more than a little in the vein of Anatole France, and which puts under the microscope what we are pleased to call our Christian civilization and calmly remarks that there is precious little in it which the Founder of Christianity would recognize.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Decker
WASHINGTON—The Roosevelt "purge"—or the effort to keep reactionaries from "stealing" the Democratic party from the people, as New Dealers call it—is going sour.
Defeat of Congressman Maury Maverick and W. D. McFarlane of Texas has tipped the balance sheet of the party primaries against the president. McFarlane may win in a runoff, but Maverick is licked and becomes the first of "my friends" to be turned down by voters. His defeat is the worst primary blow to the administration to date. He was leader of the house Democratic bloc and here of the whole New Deal group.
Some Wins—Some Losses
Here's the rest of score: New Deal Senators Claude Pepper of Florida and Lister Hill of Alabama were renominated. Roosevelt's endorsement is widely credited with saving Senator Thomas in Oklahoma. Henry Ream, with administration support, was renominated in Indiana. A New Deal incumbent in Oregon, Governor Floyd Benson, Farmer-Laborite and New Deal pet, was narrowly renominated in Minnesota. Montana's Congressman Jerry O'Connell won as a New Dealer standing Senator Wheeler. Pro-administration Senator Bob Heimerl won again in North Carolina without administration help.
But Senator Guy Gillette won in Iowa against a bungled administration effort to beat him. The McNutt machine in Indiana, to bolster its strength and attract conservative support for McNutt, renominated Senator Van Nuys, anti-administration leader in the court plan fight.
Illinois Democrats nominated Congressman Scott Lucas, wage-hour bill foe and no New Dealer, over Jim Farley's choice. Pennsylvanians turned out to back Farley against Governor Tom Kennedy, in the important gubernatorial primary. South Dakota Democrats nominated Tom Barry over the somewhat more New Dealish Senator Mitchell.
Barkley Victory Vind To New Deal
No senator endorsed by Roosevelt has been beaten, but so far F. D. R. hasn't beaten any senator's defeat. With pro-New Deal Senator McGill of Kansas and anti-New Dealer Senator Clark of Missouri about to be renominated, renomination of Senator Barkley against Senator McNutt vital to the New Deal. The August 9 primaries line up as follows:
Arkansas: Quiet, unobtrusive Senator Hattie Caraway, first woman ever to serve a full senate term, is opposed by Congressman John L. McClellan. Farley's endorsement of the president's renomination bill and McClellan against it. Roosevelt recently made a rear platform appearance with the senator and patting her on the back. Governor Carl Bailey seeks re-election, opposed by Judge R. A. Cook of Little Rock.
Pope Foes Test In Idaho
Idaho: Completely New Dealish Senator James F. Pope, whom the president wants returned—according to Farley's public statement—is opposed by young Congressman D. Worth Clark, who voted against renomination. Pope's foes charge him with "rubber stamping." Don Callahan, popular mine operator and probable Republican nominee, may give the Democratic victor trouble in November.
Nebraska: Governor Roy L. Cochran, seeking renomination, probably will be opposed in November by Speaker Charles J. Warner and perhaps by former Governor Charles W. Bryan running as an independent.
Bulky Ahead In Ohio Fells
Ohio: Scripps-Howard newspaper poll, usually reliable, indicates renomination of Senator Robert M. La Follette, who has Roosevelt's blessing, labor support, and opposition from former Governor George White, who has condemned C. I. O. More exciting, an upcoming gubernatorial race between Governor Martin Dacey and National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, well-to-do corporation lawyer, supported by labor.
The Roosevelt administration hopes Davey loses—polls indicate he will—but Davey seeks to fasten Roosevelt's coat-tails to himself. Sawyer changes graft.
Former Attorney General John W. Bricker will get the G. O. P. nomination unopposed while Supreme Court Justice Arthur H. Day and Robert A. Taft seek the Republican senatorial nomination.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Comes a sprightly rumor from Hollywood that one of the most valuable human assets of this country in these times of stress, doubt and tension—Walt Disney—is to make one of his incomparable animated productions with "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass" as the material and inspiration.

I hope the rumor is true, for I can scarcely think of a subject which would offer more play to Mr. Disney's supremely delightful humor and the ever-present sound and helpful philosophy of life and living which underlies that gentle humor.

Think what Mr. Disney could do with "shoes and ships and sealing wax" and "cabbages and kings," and whether the sea is boiling hot and whether pigs have wings. Imagine what delightful play he could make of that famous stroll along the beach when the oysters went for a constitutional with the walrus and the carpenter; or with Tweedledum and Tweedledee, or with old father William, not to mention the Mad Hatter and the red queen and the white queen.

I do believe that a production of Alice would sweep the country even more amazingly than it was swept by "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which will gross at least $5,000,000, or so they say. No one I've sure has contributed so much heavenly fun to America's life, and at a time when it was badly needed, than this same modest genius, this Irish-Canadian gentleman who first saw the light of day in Marquette, Mo.; who left a little red school house to sell papers at the age of nine, worked as news "butcher" on local trains, drove an ambulance in France for the Red Cross, educated himself as an artist and went on to such phenomenal success as is seldom found outside the story books.

The existence of all of us, aged seven to seventy, would have been a lot gloomier if Mr. Disney hadn't given us Oswald the Rabbit, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the Three Little Pigs and Snow White and her funny little gnomes. The Practical Pig is the newest of Disney's creations, though not really a newcomer for we remember him as the sober, steady, hard-working, thrifty, prudent, always-on-the-job, always-there-when-needed little pig in that hilarious production where the villain was the big bad wolf. And if he could find it in the possible and practical scheme of things to tell them of with "Alice in Wonderland," he could really call it a day, which he never would do, for work is the joy of his life and the salt of his existence.

I suppose the story of how Mickey Mouse came into being is familiar, but it is so pleasing, I would like to tell it again. When Mr. Disney was just beginning to aim at the bull's-eye of success, he worked in a bare little studio over a garage in Kansas City. As he sat silently before his easel and drawing board, working on Oswald the Rabbit and other quaint conceptions, he noticed a bright-eyed mouse slipping across the bare floor, occasionally pausing near him and then to regard him with an appraising eye.

For the fun of the thing, Mr. Disney made up his mind to tame that mouse. He did it by animal-taming methods as old as Noah and his ark. He scarcely ever made an abrupt move. He began to talk to himself (and to the mouse) in gentle murmurs. The mouse followed a trail of bread crumbs to Disney's drawing board, at his right hand, nibbling crumbs and apparently criticizing, with alert eyes, Mr. Disney's artistry.

Quite naturally, Mr. Disney began to make a model of the mouse. He drew the little chap in every variety of pose. He invented little scenes and a trail of bread crumbs to Disney's drawing board, at his right hand, nibbling crumbs and apparently criticizing, with alert eyes, Mr. Disney's artistry. And there and then Mickey Mouse

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

This is the time of year when doctors more and more often find disturbance of the knee joint that is the result of indulgence in athletic performance. Football and basketball, which come later, multiply the number of cases enormously.

The usual cause of trouble with the knee joint is generally a violent twist or wrench of the knee, or a sudden movement on a locking of the joint, or kneeling position. The condition is seen often among miners or carpet layers, or among women who get such a difficulty doing their housework. It is seen also quite frequently among professional dancers.

In this derangement of the knee joint the patient usually feels a sudden and severe pain which is often accompanied by a locking of the joint, so that the knee cannot be extended fully. The accident occurs when a cartilage, shaped like half a moon, which lies between the bone of the thigh and the larger bone of the leg, becomes pinched, cracked, or broken as a result of a sudden movement such as has been described.

The cartilage is usually one on the inside of the knee rather than one on the outside. Very soon after the accident fluid will pour into the knee joint and it will swell. This fluid is the mechanism for protecting the damaged tissues until they heal.

Many a person who has frequently had the injury will promptly throw the leg back into place when it becomes locked, and will then suffer pain for a few days as the only manifestation of the disturbance.

In other cases it is necessary for the person to have the attention at once of a competent surgeon, who by manipulation can straighten the knee and unblock it. Locked knees, thereafter, the knee must be kept quiet for a few days, so as to give opportunity for the tissues to heal before the patient attempts to walk again, dance, play baseball, or indulge in any similar performance.

In very severe cases in which this trouble occurs again and again and produces symptoms so serious that they interfere with the patient's occupation, it is customary to perform a surgical operation.

The operation involves opening the knee joint, and in some instances removing the portion of the cartilage that has been split or broken off.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART

Soap and water are the best friends of the girl whose skin is excessively oily. She should wash her face at least twice a day, and between times, use a non-greasy cleanser. She can, if she likes, apply cleansing cream, but she certainly should not use it after or instead of plenty of warm water and soap.

Also, she ought to buy and use regularly and correctly at least one preparation designed especially to correct oiliness. This may be a medicated night cream astringent or a circulation cream. Whatever it is, she should get it from the skin specialist to whom her family doctor sends her, then apply it strictly according to directions.

Undoubtedly, she'll need some kind of powder base, too. Perhaps a liquid powder lotion or a vanishing cream. Generally speaking, she'll find dry rouge more satisfactory than the cream varieties. And her powder ought to be a light-textured one which won't cake easily.

Hard little lumps which often form beneath the surface of oily skin ought to be squeezed gently the day they are discovered and, the next day, squeezed again and removed. Otherwise they may just remain below the surface, making the face look red and lumpy. After squeezing a good antiseptic should be patted on the irritated spots.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it good business usage to write "Your letter of the 10th inst., or the 21st inst., received?"
2. Is it good form for clerks in a store to call each other by their first names when speaking before customers?
3. Should a comma be used after the salutation of a business letter?
4. Should an envelope be addressed to a person at "418 Elm"?
5. In a business letter should a date be written "September 2nd, 1938"?
6. What would you do if you are an executive who has dictated a letter but cannot say to sign it after it is written? Have your secretary—
- (a) Write "Dictated but not read" under her initials on the lower left-hand side?
- (b) Sign your name so that it looks like your signature?
- (c) Sign your name with her initials under it?

1. No.
2. No.
3. No, a colon.
4. No. It is Elm street or avenue.
5. No. The use of "nd," "th," "st," etc., is not correct in this case.
6. Best "What Would You Do?" selection—(c), (a) was an invasion of territory.

SOUTH MAY SEEK TWO-THIRDS RULE

majority for the rule even though a majority of the convention would vote to renounce the president.

The rule would appeal, they predicted, to the south, to delegations supporting "favorite son" candidates and to delegates who would like to oppose the president without voting directly against him.

These politicians declined to be quoted by name until, they said, the president had disclosed his intentions definitely.

Mr. Roosevelt's best known statement on the question thus far was made at a Democratic banquet on March 4, 1937, when he said:

"My great ambition on January 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be, with the assurance that I am at the same time turning over to him as president a nation intact."

Speculation over the president's intentions has provided major conversation fare for politicians here this summer.

Charles Michelson, the Democratic party's publicity director, joined the discussion today, saying in his weekly column:

"My guess is that Franklin D. Roosevelt would take a case of the hives rather than four years more of the headache that being president means."

He was replying to Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, who had said he expected the president to try for a third term—and fail to get it.

Michelson wrote:

"It will not be so easy a choice, at that. Circumstances arise that would make it impossible for him to lay down the burden. The world may be at war, with or without threat of our involvement, or some other equally acute emergency may eventuate that would forbid a change of administration, and the man in the White House is not the kind of individual who would let his personal desires interfere with what seemed to him to be his duty."

Michelson said he believed the president had never discussed the question with any one, not even his family nor his closest friends, and that he himself "could not say, even if he were to say, that he would or would not be a candidate in 1940."

were then said to have left the restaurant and they went to the railroad platform outside. Their pistols began belching bullets. Banks, with a bullet in his stomach, walked across the street to a drug store and collapsed on the sidewalk. He died a few minutes after being taken to a physician's office.

The duel was said to have climaxed ill feeling between the two men which had existed for some time. Banks formerly was chief deputy sheriff of DeSoto county, Arkansas, and formerly was employed under Sevier as a railroad special agent.

Mrs. Sevier was at the bedside of her husband in Lake Village last night.

MOVIE MODES

Kay Francis, starring in "Secrets of an Actress," wears this ensemble when traveling, and all women turn green with envy. The black and white striped coat has three slit pockets on either side. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Ralph Lee at the Vicksburg hospital August 2. She has been named Barbara Ellen.

BEE STINGS USED

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—Dr. Raymond B. Carey has received the city's permission to keep a colony of bees in his office, because he uses them in the treatment of arthritis. The bee's sting contains a venom which is "hemorrhagic and neurotoxic," he says, and patients endure it to rid themselves of the more persistent pains of disease.

LEE G. O. P. CANDIDATE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Colorado Republicans designated Archibald A. Lee, Denver attorney, today as their candidate for the United States senate seat to which Alva B. Adams, Pueblo, is seeking the Democratic renomination.

COUNTING ABOUT HALF COMPLETED

government" had been used "to bring about my defeat."

"As you know the president came to Kentucky and made a speech against us," he said. "They ran the WPA from $3,000 to about 100,000."

In conclusion the governor said: "We've made a gallant campaign and still have a smile on our face and a song in our hearts."

A further check on the congressional district totals showed Senator Barkley had a substantial lead in western Kentucky. In the first district—his home—Barkley had 30,591 votes to 17,779 for Chandler. In the adjoining second, Barkley was ahead 34,997 to 26,337 for the governor.

Senator Barkley in a radio speech from Paducah said:

"My friends, I have very little to say, except that I'm delighted with what seems to be an overwhelming nomination to the United States senate."

"It has been a hard fight—one that I did not think I'd have to make. But in a sense I was a blessing in disguise. It gave me an opportunity to meet more people than ever before in my political history."

"To all persons who supported me, I extend my heartfelt gratitude; and to those who opposed me, now that the battle is over, I hope we will close ranks and make a victory in November larger than any in the state's history."

"I shall use all my ability to make for Kentucky a capable, honest and upright member of the United States senate. I guess that's about all I have to say."

Tabulation of the vote in Breathitt county where Lee Combs, former sheriff and an election commissioner, was killed Thursday night and Sheriff W. L. Deaton also was killed, was postponed until Monday. The Hart county tabulation also was postponed until Monday.

Barkley had the personal backing in the race of President Roosevelt.

Three of the eight Democratic congressmen were renominated without opposition. These were Noble J. Gregory of the first district, Beverly M. Vincent of the second and Edward W. Creal of the fourth.

Blodgett marked the bitter rivalry between the Barkley and Chandler factions in Breathitt county, where in 1921 four persons were killed and 17 wounded in an election shooting. Former Sheriff Lee Combs was killed on the stairs of a building housing Barker headquarters. His brother, Lewis Combs, county chairman for Chandler, and Sheriff Walter Deaton were wounded. Five men, including the Barkley county chairman, are sought in the shooting.

President Roosevelt, early in July came into Kentucky for a one-day speaking tour. He made three speeches favoring Senator Barkley. In the main talk of the day at Latonia race track, near Covington, the president lauded Barkley but tempered his words with praise for Chandler.

In other speeches at Louisville and Bowling Green Mr. Roosevelt praised Barkley but did not mention Chandler.

Senator Barkley has served Kentucky in the national capital for a quarter-century. As senate majority leader he has the whip hand in ushering New Deal legislation through the upper house of the national congress.

Governor Chandler came into the national political spotlight in 1936 when he carried the Roosevelt banner and won the governorship in a runoff. Chandler, campaigning then chiefly on a repeal of the state sales tax, was credited with smashing an old time political machine.

While the Barkley campaign meetings throughout the drive for votes have generally been serious with the speaker dealing in facts and figures, there has been a jovial atmosphere around the Chandler gatherings.

To enliven his meetings, the governor adopted "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky" as his theme song and often led his listeners in the strains of the cowboy ballad.

Charges that federal and state funds were being used in the campaign were one of the many highlights. The senate campaign expenditures committee took cognizance of the reports and sent investigators into the state.

This was followed by a public report that the investigators had found the existence of such a condition and warning from the committee that a hearing might be held before the successful candidate for senator took his seat in the next congress. The committee returned its investigators into the state to remain through the primary.

There was a sensation when President Roosevelt in his Bowling Green speech took cognizance of previously publicized reports of an attempted "trade" by which Junior Senator M. M. Logan would get a federal judgeship clearing the way for Chandler to go to the senate and leave Senator Barkley without opposition.

When Chandler charged in a speech that Logan, openly advocating Barkley's renomination, had "begged" for a judgeship, the senator retorted: "It's a damned lie."

Later Dan Talbot, the state finance commissioner and one of the leaders in the Chandler organization, issued a statement charging Postmaster General James A. Farley was "double-crossed" in a proposition to get Logan the judgeship. Talbot said the suggestion for the "trade" had come from Farley and not Chandler.

OHIO MAY LOSE FEDERAL GRANTS

nile word from Kentucky as to the outcome of the Barkley-Chandler race, in which President Roosevelt has boldly intervened.

In Idaho next Tuesday, when Senator James P. Pope and Representative D. Worth Clark put their rivalry for the Democratic senatorial nomination to the test, a much sharper issue of New Deal loyalty versus boldly asserted independence will be involved than in the Kentucky contest.

Senator Pope is running on his pledge to keep right on as a 100 per cent New Dealer if re-elected. Representative Clark has been off the New Deal reservation frequently. He is committed to an independent course, based on his own judgment, if he reaches the senate.

On Thursday also, there will be senatorial primaries in Arkansas and Ohio and a non-senatorial primary in Nebraska.

In Arkansas, a direct showing of Roosevelt favor for renomination of Senators Caraway and Bulwinkle given a national interest in the Democratic contest. But it is in Idaho that the strongest New Deal backing has been rallied behind Pope.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull broke his political silence recently to point out Pope's strong support of the New Deal trade pact venture. National Chairman Farley has extended his good wishes to Pope in less cryptic fashion than he has done it for some other Democratic involved in renomination contests. Weeks ago, President Roosevelt himself gave aid and comfort to Pope's proposals for the development of phosphate lands in which Idahoans might have much interest.

There can be no doubt Pope is carrying administration colors against Clark.

In the circumstances, Pope's defeat in Idaho would be a sharper stinger to it for the administration than primary elimination of New Dealer incumbents in Arkansas or Ohio.

Off-stage, Republicans are said to have talked up Clark against Pope in the hope of hitting the president and the New Deal hard over Pope's shoulder.

An administration setback in Idaho would not involve any of the serious questions for future Roosevelt leadership which have been raised in connection with the Kentucky senatorial race. Roosevelt's sweep of the state in 1932 and again by virtually two-to-one over Logan in 1936 indicates strong Roosevelt sentiment there.

Pope was an easy victor in 1932, riding Roosevelt coat-tails, and Tuesday's voting will show whether the same form of political transportation is as efficient this year.

State election factors are involved in Ohio to complicate the race of Senator Bulwinkle for renomination. This probably accounts for the lightness of the president's touch in bestowing his blessing on Bulwinkle.

In Arkansas, the only woman senator, Mrs. Caraway, is making her first unchaperoned campaign for re-election, the late Huey Long having invaded the state in her behalf six years ago.

That gives the Arkansas contest a touch of more human than national political interest.

But in Idaho there is perhaps the most unbroken party challenge to Roosevelt leadership yet to be reached in the primaries.

LONG-MILLS FEUD FLARES UP ANEW

their ballots for "anybody else in the race but New Mills."

Following Mr. Long's speech J. E. McClanahan, a political leader of Caldwell parish for many years, told the crowd about the Mills-Warren note. He said Mr. Mills had owed Mr. Warren the money for 13 years and added that if Mills didn't pay Mr. Warren the money, plus the accrued interest, he would pay the indebtedness himself and "you know what I will do with that note."

Mr. McClanahan, who was a close friend of the late Senator Huey P. Long, also detailed his successful efforts to bring Huey and Earl together again after the two brothers had "fallen out."

He said he went to Senator Long and told him that Earl and he should settle their differences, which always crop up between brothers, because each needed the other. Senator Long, Mr. McClanahan said, declared that he wanted Earl at his side in his fight for the poor people of Louisiana and that as a result of the visit, the two were brought together again and united in their fight for the good of the state.

Following an address by Gov. David C. Porter, candidate for congressional office, there was a brief interlude, and then Congressman Mills replied to Governor Long.

The congressman opened his talk by accusing Earl Long of fighting Huey Long all over the state and said the lieutenant-governor was afraid he (Mr. Mills) was "going to run for governor."

Mr. Mills said he had employed a stenographer to record the remarks of Mr. Long and Mr. McClanahan and that he also had used a "machine" which recorded everything the two speakers had said. He said he would then read the transcript of the conversation to the crowd.

CARROLL'S CHIEF GIVES TESTIMONY

deputy had not accounted for his whereabouts on the night, last October 11, when the 41-year-old country physician was bludgeoned and garroted in Dwyer's Paris Mill home. Dwyer charged from the stand that Carroll killed the doctor.

Carroll's wife and children, including Barbara, will join him, defense counsel announced late today, in testimony.

This far, the men jurors have heard testimony from seven witnesses, presented to bolster the state's contention Carroll slew the doctor because, through Paul, the physician had gained knowledge of alleged illicit relations between Carroll and his pretty daughter.

Dwyer, chief buttress in the state's case, further asserted Carroll strangled Dr. Littlefield's 41-year-old wife, Lydia. The pallid youth also had confessed that murder when arrested in North Arlington, N. J., last October 18 in a car containing both bodies.

Anger, aroused by a slur on his "girl" by the doctor, Dwyer said, prompted the first killing. Mrs. Littlefield, he said, was slain because she suspected what he had done to her husband.

These arrested included Jeff T. Bryant who was apprehended in Baton Rouge on a warrant charging non-support. Hubert Hollanderworth, arrested in Fresno, Calif., and King Wright, Jr., negro, arrested in Tallulah on a charge of removing chattel mortgaged property from the parish without authority. The charge against Hollanderworth was not revealed by the sheriff's department.

DIES SUDDENLY

ROGERS, Ark., Aug. 6.—Mrs. T. J. Fitch, wife of a former vice-president of the Magnolia Refining company at Dallas, Tex., died suddenly today at her new $20,000 country home on White river near here. Her husband and several grown children survive.

Woodrow Wilson's birthplace, the Manse at Staunton, Va., is to be made a national shrine.

MARATHON GOLFER

PLAYS AGAIN TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—J. Smith

Furbush today picked up his grueling

144 hole golf marathon of yesterday, then said he would be out early tomorrow for his regular Sunday foursome—and still another 36 holes.

The 31-year-old investment broker, who in 15 hours and seven minutes of golf yesterday won complete ownership of a $30,000 Virginia plantation and $2,500 in side bets by completing eight 18-hole rounds in 90 strokes or less, said a blistered left heel bothered him today but only until it was properly treated.

Furbush carried an 81 over the No.

3 course today where yesterday he scored two 82's. He then toured the

No. 3 course in 78, just reversing the figures of his two 87's over the same layout yesterday.

Asked "How long does this go on?"

Furbush replied:

"Well, I don't get to play very often.

So when I do, I like to play at least

36 holes. Besides, I never miss Saturdays and Sundays."

AUTOMOBILE 'NIGHT'
PLANNED AT CASINO
PARK ON THURSDAY

Arrangements for another "automobile night" program at Casino park during the home stand this week of the Monroe Baseball club were nearing completion last night, according to reports from the local club.

The automobile, second to be given away in the Monroe ball park this season, will be rolled out before the grandstand at Casino park next Thursday night for some Monroe fans to drive home in. The machine will be given away at the close of the game between Monroe's White Sox and the Greenville Buckshots.

A flat rate admission price of 40 cents will be charged all spectators Thursday night in the bleachers, stands or boxes. Box seats will be occupied as usual, however, by their holders only on the condition that such holders pay the regular admission fee. Complimentary tickets and passes will not be issued for the game, it was stated.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Ten new wells in Louisiana oil fields with total initial daily capacity of 3,471 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the mineral division of the department of conservation today.

The largest producer listed in the report was the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 3 Patton Heirs in the Libron field, producing 508 barrels of oil daily. The company also included the No. 1 Elberbe, brought in by R. E. Allison on the outskirts of Shreveport July 15, flowing 503 barrels through a half-inch choke.

Twelve permits to drill new wells were issued during the week, of which nine were wells in Louisiana. Average daily production of oil in the state for the week ending July 30 was estimated by the department at 289,426 barrels, of which 186,936 barrels came from south Louisiana fields. Total production in the state during the week of July 30 was approximately 8,300,000 barrels.

REPORT HAWAII

CLIPPER FOUND

PROVES FALSE

TOKYO, Aug. 7 (Sunday)—(AP)—The Japanese navy today radioed the steamer Canberra, en route from Australia to Japan, to go by way of Douglas reef to look for the missing Hawaii clipper.

The navy's announcement of the order said the United States embassy had reported the big plane found and asked said. The embassy later denied this.

Douglas reef is just north of the route the clipper expected to follow from Guam to Manila when she took off July 28.

Eugene H. Dooman, counselor of the American embassy, said the Pan-American Airways had calculated the clipper might be in the vicinity of Douglas reef and had asked the embassy to request Japanese aid.

As a result, he said, he asked the Japanese navy if such help could be given and the navy radioed the Canberra Maru, which happened to be the nearest vessel to the reef.

Gains Run To Around Two Points At Best; Motors And Steels Among Leaders

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Stocks accompanied the temperature on the upward climb in today's market. With motors, steels, rubbers, rails and a wide assortment of specialties in the lead, gains ran to around two points at the best, with new highs for the year or longer plentiful.

While the ticker tape managed to keep up throughout the brief session, the pace was the fastest for a Saturday since July 2. Transfers were in the neighborhood of the 800,000-share mark.

Profit taking intervened occasionally and was a bit more insistent before the close. The result was that top gains were shaded in many cases. Bonds trailed along with stocks, carriers loans being among the most popular. Commodities again refused to get aboard the recovery plan. Grain futures were hesitant throughout.

The extension of Wednesday's share recovery, brokers said, was due mainly to the continuance of brighter business prospects and to the belief of most observers that a major war, either on the Russo-Japanese front or in Europe, was unlikely at this time.

New 1938 tops were posted for such stocks as General Motors, Texas Corp., Briggs Mfg., Greyhound Corp., U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Libbey-Owens-Ford, Du Pont, Phelps Dodge and Delaware and Hudson.

Conspicuous on the forward swing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Celanese, Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, John-Manville and Eastman Kodak.

Blocks of several thousand shares in the price of railroads changed hands in the initial hour on the up-side. Renewed friendliness for the carriers reflected last week's more than seasonal increase in freight loadings and further hopes the intervention of the federal mediation board in the case of the controversy might bring a compromise profitable to the carriers.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Wheat prices developed an upward trend at times today, strengthened to some extent by upturns in securities, but buying on the whole was limited and the recovery movement made little headway.

Opening 1-8 off to 1-2 up, Sept. 54 5-8-55, Dec. 56 5-8-54, all wheat closed steady. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 lower, Sept. 53 1-8-54, Dec. 51 5-8-54.

Miss Margaret Laughlin Grace Becomes Bride Of Joseph A. Winkler, Jr.

Marriage Takes Place In Plaquemine Church

Young Couple Will Make Home In West Monroe After Honeymoon Trip In The West

Claiming the interest of friends is the marriage of Miss Margaret Laughlin Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grace of Plaquemine, and Mr. Joseph A. Winkler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Winkler of West Monroe, August 3 at St. John Evangelist Catholic church, Plaquemine, with Rev. Leonard Robin officiating.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. J. L. Hartenstein, matron of honor, Miss Edna Grace of Baton Rouge, maid of honor, and six bridesmaids, Miss Anna Mae Roseman of Opelousas, Miss Rose Lee Winkler of Plaquemine, Miss Marie Lanier, Miss Doris Dean, Mrs. Rhodes Spedale of Plaquemine, Miss Alberta Bartell of St. Gabriel.

The matron of honor and the maid of honor wore Emily models of tea rose net over tulle with full skirts and light bodices with short puffed sleeves and large leghorn hats. They carried blue asters tied with cornflower blue satin ribbons.

The bridesmaids wore Emily models of cornflower blue with bouffant skirts over tulle and tight fitting basques. Leghorn hats with pink ribbon streamers falling over the floor were worn. They wore Chinese crocheted gloves of elbow length and carried arm bouquets of pink asters tied with cornflower blue ribbons.

The flower girl, Lydia Ann Grace, wore an Emily model of tea rose net with long, full skirt. The ring bearer, Daniel Grace, Jr., carried a white walking stick to which the rings were attached.

The groomsmen were Dr. Rhodes, Mr. Albert L. Grace, Mr. Peter Wilbert, Mr. Daniel Grace of Plaquemine, Mr. Thomas Grace, Mr. T. J. Bowman, Mr. Clifford Grace of Baton Rouge. The ushers were Mr. Joseph A. Grace and Mr. Allen Davidson of Plaquemine.

Mr. Winkler's best man was Mr. Marion A. Higgins of New Orleans.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a distinctive Emily model of white marquisette over tulle with high draped neckline, fitted bodice with long, full skirt. A panel of Alencon lace formed the long train. The veil of illusion and Alencon lace was caught to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms and pearls. Sixteen-button white kid gloves were worn and for sentiment she wore her mother's diamond bracelet, a gift of her wedding day. She carried a superb bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

During the signing of the register, Mr. John C. Winkler of Monroe, the bridegroom's brother, sang "Ave Maria."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. White roses were massed in the reception suite and dining room. The breakfast room, where refreshments were served, was banked with pink roses and palms.

The handsome wedding cake rested on the bride's table in the dining room. Mrs. C. E. Postell and Mrs. Peter Hilbert presided over the handsome silver coffee service and Mrs. E. M. Lanier presided over the bride's table.

The mother of the bridegroom stood in the receiving line. Mrs. Grace wore a blue lace model and Mrs. Winkler wore a pounce blue chiffon model. Both wore coronas.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smartly tailored suit of duobonnet with navy blue accessories. An orchid corsage added distinction.

Mr. and Mrs. Winkler are honeymooning in Yellowstone national park. After the 25th of August they will be at home to their friends at 205 LaZarre Avenue, West Monroe.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were triple strands of pearls. Mr. Winkler presented his attendants with gifts of a personal nature. His gift to his bride was a beautiful pearl necklace and pearl rosary.

Mrs. James Carroll has returned to her home in Dallas, Tex., following a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. McGinsey.

Dance Is Given By Sorority

Toddler's Hop Introduced By Delta Kappa Pi Members

Variety is the spice of life, according to members of Delta Kappa Pi sorority who are ever on the alert for something new and novel in the way of entertainment.

Their most recent attempt to introduce a novelty proved most successful. It was a "Toddler's Hop," and brought out members of the younger set in play clothes. Toys were distributed as favors during the evening and the swing music supplied by the orchestra conducive to perpetual motion.

In attendance were Nell Renwick and Spencer Lee, Polly Kennedy and Ben Downing, Adelaide Parker and Thomas Wyatt, Florence Pluker and Thad Howell, Violet Martin and Edward Koserog, Sara Jean Young and Paul Patterson, Mary Lena Ballard and Francis McCaleb, Jean Tabb and Billy Stevenson, Beverly Peavy and Ben Francis, Mildred Kaller and Charles Caldwell, both Edwards and Charles Fraser, Janis Edwards and "Sonny" Johnson, Gloria Major and Billy Wright, Annabella Morehead and Blaise Woodall, Jane McKenzie and Allen Meredith, Theodore Hart and Billy Roche, Virginia Kersh and Aubrey Young, Jo Ann Gunderman and Charles Savella, Marjorie Gremillion and Billy Gray, Marjorie Goodlet and Jack Trimble, Carolyn Husted and Jimmy Tolson, Veronica Wilds and George LeBlanc.

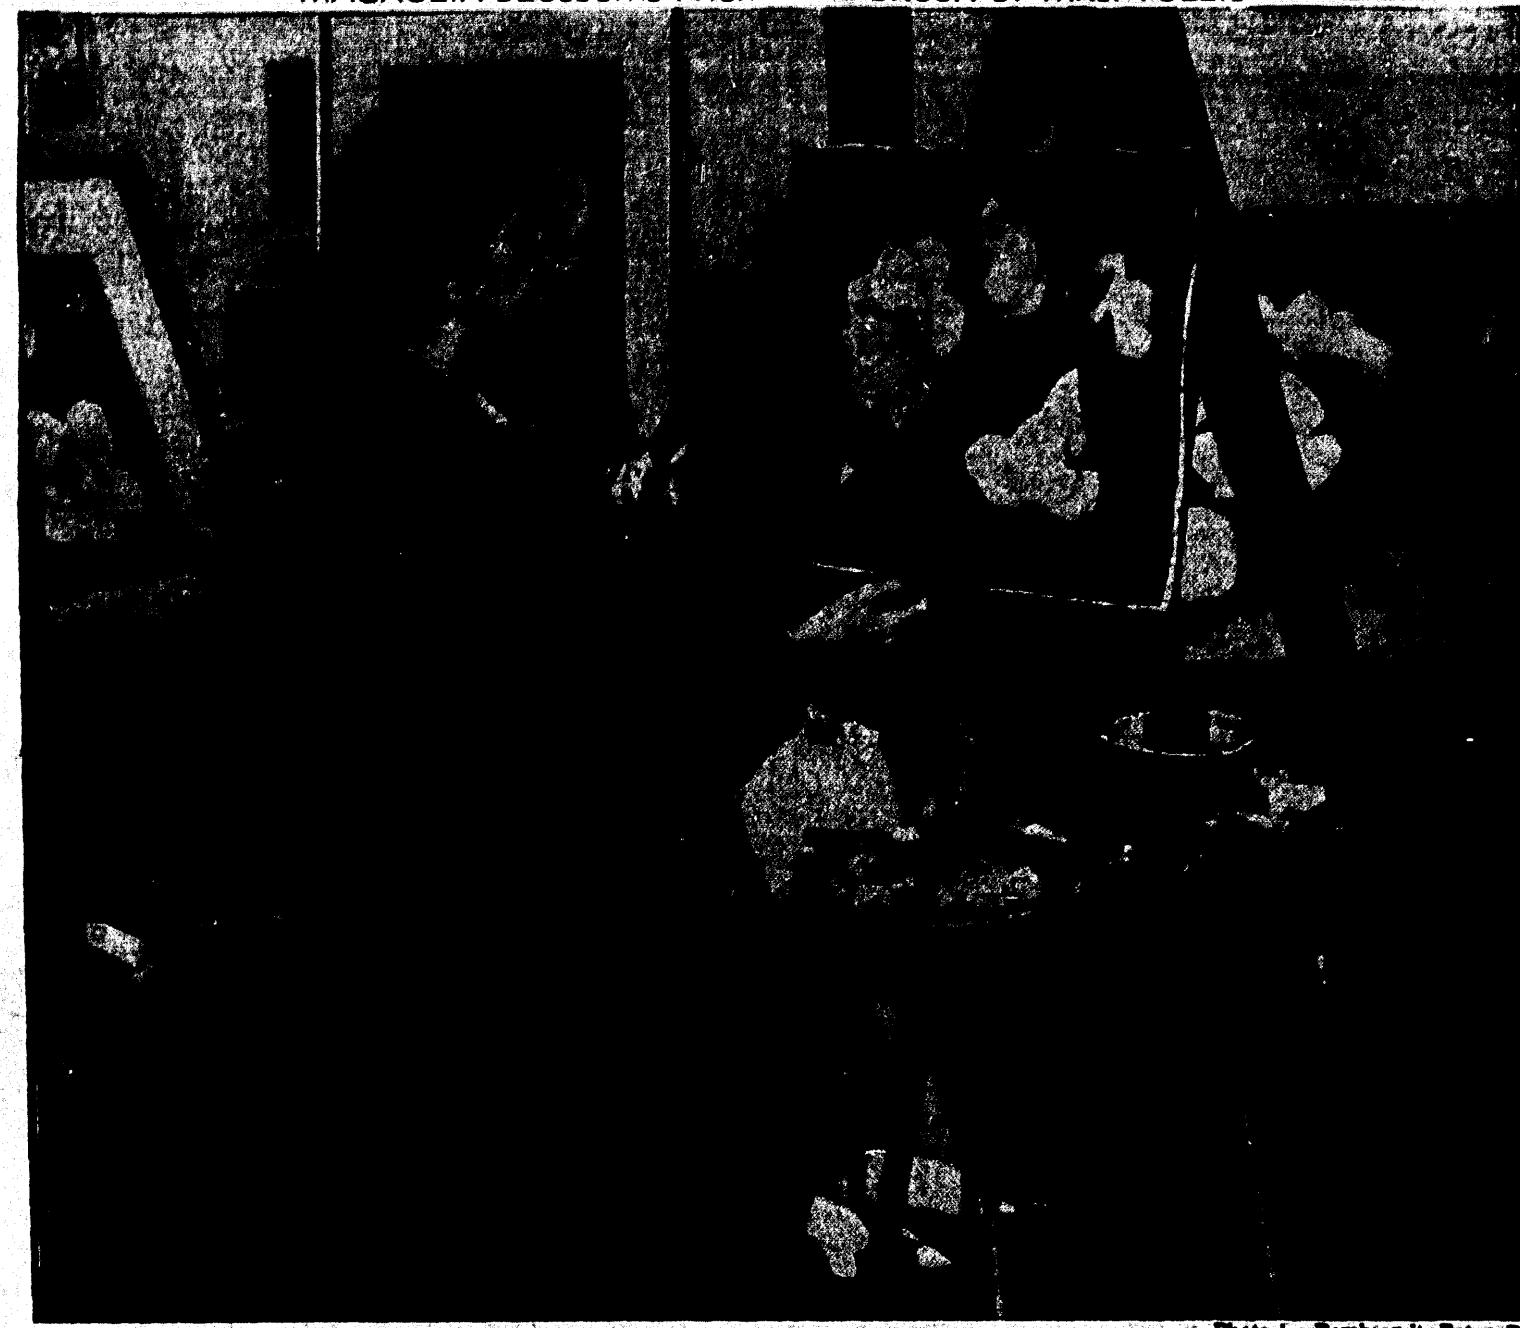

Others were Justine Wilson, Mary Rainbolt, Mable Cole, Marie Nelson, Lois Rainbolt, Betty Middleton, "Dustie" Rhodes, Margaret Butler, Marion Woody, "Twistie" Myers, Betty Seamon, Margie Robbins, Barbara McKennie, Levy Gernillion, Patsy Slack, Horne Peck, Jo McCook, Margaret Butler, Nell, Ann Gunderman and Mike Devereaux, Jeanette Peck, Ardis Ponder, Spencer Lee, Melba Stevenson, Sara Strong, Mary Mahr, Ann Burgess, Seb DeLee, John Oakland, Clarence Barton, Joe Pipes, Bill Armstrong, Dolores Brown and Frances Wilson.

Style Revue To Be Held Monday

Monday night a coterie of attractive girls will appear in a style and flower revue at the Paramount theater. They will give feminine Monroe an opportunity to see what the winter season has to offer in the way of sleek satins, clinging crepes, snappy sport clothes and college togs.

The bridal procession, featuring Miss Clara Virginia Terzia as the "bride" will be the outstanding feature of the revue. She will carry a gorgeous bridal bouquet. Her maids, Miss Martha Jane Hill and Miss Carrie Jo Hill, as well as her flower girl, Mary Wilton McHenry, will carry exquisite bouquets. Edward Seymour, Jr., handsome young son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour, will serve as ring bearer.

Styling cotton frocks will be the pleasant task of Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale, Miss Ellen Kent Millaps, Miss Ruth Atkins, Miss Mary Frances Savage, Miss Louisa Morrison, Miss Marilyn Marshall, Miss Ellis Jones, Miss Sara Beth Farmer, Miss Doris Reid, Mrs. Asher Whitley, Miss Margaret Ammon, Miss Kathleen Roligh and Miss Sara Cole Morrison. Peggy and Jeanne Strauss, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Strauss, will model playtime suits.

Mrs. R. L. Tullis, wife of the dean emeritus of the Louisiana State university law school, took up painting because she wanted a hobby for her old age, and painted magnolia blossoms because she loved them. Her paintings now are so much in demand that she can hardly fill the orders. Mrs. Tullis, formerly Octavia Gayden of East Feliciana parish, loved the state flower even when a child on the family plantation, Oakland. The flowers of each tree vary slightly from those of all other trees, she has found, and armed with a long stick to which a hook is attached she snips blossoms here and there from the trees of her home.

Program Announced For Women's Clubs

Three-Day Convention Will Be Held In Oklahoma City On November 11-13

The three day program for the south central regional conference of Business and Professional Women to be held in Oklahoma City November 11-13 has been announced by Mrs. Richard Privette of Covington, first vice-president of the Louisiana federation, who has just returned from Oklahoma City where she met with presidents of the state federations comprising this region, Miss Margaret Higgins, president of the Missouri federation, Miss Anna L. Samuelson, Kansas, Mrs. Effie Rogers, Arkansas, Miss Kate Hill, Texas, and Miss Bernice Bate of Oklahoma also attended the meeting. Miss Belle Reichel of Oklahoma City is the chairman for the regional conference.

The regional conference will open with registration at the Skirvin hotel on Friday, November 11, and according to Monte Goldsby, the Louisiana federation president, this state will be represented by the largest delegation ever to attend a regional meeting.

At the first session at 4 p.m., on Friday, Miss Earlene White, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs and a native of Jackson, Miss., who is now on a European cruise, will be presented to the group. She will be the speaker at a banquet to be held Saturday evening in the Silver room of the Skirvin hotel. Mrs. David Sims, international relations chairman of the federation, will speak in the civic auditorium at an open meeting Friday evening on "World Affairs Twenty Years After Armistice."

A panel discussion on the coordination of the year's program "My Business and Yours" will be conducted on Saturday by Miss Louise Franklin Bache, executive secretary. Miss Bache will be assisted by the presidents of the six states in the regional session.

On Saturday each state delegation will have a luncheon and round table discussions or workshops will be held Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Womack of the Baton Rouge club will lead the round table on "Publicity and Publications." "Your Business and Mine—New Frontiers for the Trained Woman" will be discussed by Miss Margaret Hickey discussing the urban side of the question and Mrs. Effie Rogers, the rural side.

Judge Grace Miles of Kansas will serve as parliamentarian for the conference. Dr. Minnie Maffett of Texas, second vice-president of the national federation, will be another prominent person taking part on the program.

The Louisiana delegation will present an invitation to the conferees to hold the 1940 regional meeting in New Orleans. Miss Margaret Carter of Lake Charles, transportation chairman announces many will go by car and plans are being made to have a special sleeper leave New Orleans for the conference.

Miss Goldsby, president of the state federation, states that at the recent meeting of the board of the national federation in Grand Rapids, Mich., members reaffirmed "that the federation with increasing energy and action attacks tendencies to hamper free economic activity of women in the United States and its dependencies; that the clubs of the federation officially and in cooperation wherever possible with other organizations, act in their own localities to prevent discriminations against business and professional women." She states "the board respectfully suggested to the president of the United States that he give serious consideration to the appointment of a qualified woman to the place on the United States supreme court caused by the death of Judge Cordozo."

Miss McCoy Marries William Glen Pace

Interest is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Constance Letitia McCoy and Mr. William Glen Pace of this city July 9.

The marriage was solemnized at the home of Rev. C. Carlos Smith of West Monroe, and only intimate friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Myrtice Hill and the late W. R. McCoy of Denison, Tex., wore a becoming model of beige crepe, fashioned with draped neckline and flared skirt, with accessories of British tan. She wore a corsage of pink gladioli.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Aubrey Miles, who wore a frock of navy blue and pink, with navy blue accessories.

Mr. Pace, who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pace of Farmerville, was attended by Mr. Horace Terrell.

The marriage ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. Horace Terrell, on Hudson lane. Mr. Pace has for the past several years been associated with the Saenger theaters. The couple will be at home to their friends at 211 Hudson lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Massey Of Cincinnati Feted

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Massey of Cincinnati, O., are the guests of Mr. Massey's mother, Mrs. J. W. Box, at Hotel White at Clarksville, Miss.

Mr. Massey, remembered as Miss Charlotte Box, is a bride of recent date, and was honored at this occasion with a handkerchief shower.

Among the guests were Mrs. Massey, Mrs. J. W. Box, Misses Beatrice and Vera Corbin, Misses Faye and Raye Cooksey, Miss D'wanna McGinn, Miss Helen Chapman, Miss Julia Perkins, Miss Harriette Cobb, Miss Evelyn Blair, Mrs. Aline Stovall, Misses Katherine and Carmen Gerlach, Mrs. Richard Greene, Mrs. F. H. Minard, Miss Marie Minard, and Mrs. Paul Jones of Clarksville. Mrs. Winifred Benison of Monroe; Mrs. Mildred Brown of Columbia; Mrs. Harry Woolridge of Grayson; Mrs. Margaret McKenzie Bales of Vivien, and Miss Jones of Clarksville.

Rev. and Mrs. C. Carlos Smith and family left last week for the motor route for a vacation in Yellowstone park, Los Angeles and San Francisco. En route they will visit all points of interest.

The Sundial

Don't thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Benj. Franklin.

By Eva C. Bradford

AUGUST, the last vacation month of the summer, trots merrily along. Everyone in Monroe seems to be inoculated with this delightfully demoralizing vacation spirit. Keys are turned in the home door by vacationists returning and departing daily. It is the month when the working girl can indulge herself in the exquisite pleasure of having her breakfast in bed, of wearing the perfect frock, using, haunting perfume and the thrill of a new hair dress. Vacations are most certainly heaven-sent opportunities for the business woman to enjoy life to the fullest.

The charming letters and cards we receive daily from vacationists serve to remind us that Monroe people are among the world's greatest travelers. There is scarcely a corner of the globe where magic doors have not been opened to Monroe travelers this summer. Scanning the cards and letters received reminds us that Betty Isaacman is summing in southern Italy with occasional visits to the Lido and Italian Riviera—the John Gordons in Victoria, B. C., and Glacier national park—the Maurice Fraziers motoring in Yellowstone national park—Virginia Blanks and children spending the month of August at Rock-a-way beach in the Ozarks—the Alex Willinicks sailing on board the Algonquin from Galveston to Miami Beach and via airplane to Havana—Lib Schlenker and children on the Atlantic coast near Savannah—Mrs. L. W. Mobley motoring with friends along the Atlantic coast en route to Nova Scotia and Canada's maritime provinces, including the village of Grand Pre—the James Sparkes and Victor Davises who recently returned from Mexico City—the B. Beasleys and Byron Beasly home last month from Canada and a visit to the Dionne quintuplets—Gladys Sperry and son Burt at Virginia Beach with kinkloks—the Bernard Biedenbarns and Joseph Biedenbarn touring Europe—Enola Rogers at Blowing Rock, N. C.—Ida and Patricia Kaplan on a dude ranch near Santa Fe—Ann Platt, Grace Ingledue and Carrie Dee Drew (all in separate parties) sailing the Mediterranean, motoring through Europe and then home on the Queen Mary in September—True Hudson in New York City with her daughter Happy Magee and later enjoying summer sports at the Magee farm in Manchester—Polly and Eleanor Heninger, Maud Stubbs, Carolyn Stubbs, Jane Dawkins, Jean Terzia, Jennie Bell Fudickar, Louise Gray, on the Caribbean sea. These are not the only vacationists by any means, they have been coming and going ever since June.

Like fireflies pricking the darkness are the lights illuminating tennis and badminton courts these warm summer nights—and if the bug has bitten you, you'd spend your last cent for a new racket instead of the smartest chap in the shops. Whether you are in the professional class or just a "dub," it's a lot of fun. For the more hardy and ardent badminton fans, even the melting noon-day sun doesn't keep them off the court. Billy Bendel plays completely around the clock. Early morning, afternoon and night. Lights strung across the court in the Bendel yard aid him and other addicts to watch bobbing ball with his jaunty feather. Sadye Lou Peters, who wears sport clothes divinely, wields the racket with grace and skill. Josephine McCranie, Hazel Mitchell and Sara Florence Coon are close rivals.

We heard a choice bit of news last week, so interesting in fact we take pleasure in passing it on to others. It seems that the late Mrs. Oscar Allen willed her gorgeous Pickard china tea and coffee service to Anna Gray Noe, who always admired it whenever she visited in the Allen home. It arrived last week and is considered by Anna Gray to be one of her most cherished possessions. Friends will enjoy it with her as she intends to use it next winter when friends drop in and she offers afternoon tea, as is her custom.

Mrs. Tullis' Paintings Attract Wide Interest

Wife Of Dean Emeritus Of L. S. U. Law School Uses Magnolia As Her Chief Subject

The beauty of the magnolia, Louisiana state flower, has been transferred to canvas by a celebrated artist, Mrs. R. L. Tullis, of Baton Rouge, wife of the dean emeritus of Louisiana State university law school.

Speaking of her painting, Mrs. Tullis said she had reached middle age and had no hobby that would interest her in later years. The hobby of painting was developed to provide that interest, and the magnolia, her favorite blossom, was selected for her subject.

The painting of magnolias has brought fame and a small fortune to Mrs. Tullis. Her work is well known in Monroe, where several art lovers count her canvases among their most cherished possessions.

Mrs. Tullis began taking art lessons at Louisiana State university and tried her hand at painting magnolia grandiflora which she had learned to love because the trees grew in abundance around her family home, Oakland, in East Feliciana parish.

"No one was more surprised than I when I found that my water colors actually looked like magnolias," Mrs. Tullis recalls. "One of my teachers saw one of the flowers and told me that I had something, so I should concentrate on magnolias. I was pleased with the idea because I have always loved the flower. We had hundreds of trees around our home place. Now I go everywhere in search of magnolia blossoms to use as models."

Mrs. Tullis makes her magnolia forays armed with a long stick which has a hook at one end. This she uses to detach the blossoms from the trees, a delicate task, as the blossoms bruise easily. Each tree has slightly different flowers, she finds, and her friends are generous in allowing her to cut the flowers.

"Only one person has ever refused me," she said, "and he likes to keep the blossoms on his trees. I like the late blossoms best. When the red seed balls have formed and this adds a note of color that is most effective." Mrs. Tullis never has had an exhibit of her own, although she has shown her pictures at Louisiana State university shows. Her pictures have something that makes all different and that makes the waxy blossoms extremely realistic.

Strangely enough she uses the simple colors and no white paint, letting the paper on which she paints serve as the petals of the flowers. These are shaded carefully. She has in the small room that she has converted into a studio a number of vases in brass, glass and pottery and she uses these. To catch a rich red she uses a maroon trowel she has discarded.

All the paintings are signed Octavia Gayden Tullis. Mrs. Tullis herself finds that her technique improves with painting.

"Why I wish I could recall the pictures I did a year ago," she says, "because these I am doing now are so much better. They don't always turn out exactly right, but then I do another one."

On occasion Mrs. Tullis paints dogwood or camellia-japonicas but she always goes back to the magnolia blossoms which she loves.

And she likes painting better than anything she has ever done. "I just regret that I didn't take it up sooner," she says. "I want to Newcomb and I took a craft course there but no actual painting."

Mrs. Tullis did post-graduate work at Cornell, specializing in Greek, Latin and ancient history. Then for years she served as her husband's secretary at a time when his sight was threatened.

"But of them all, I prefer magnolias," she said.

Mrs. Tullis is a member of the Colonial Dames in New Orleans, the only Baton Rouge member of that group. She is also an honorary member of the Baton Rouge Art League, but she has little time for club doings. "I'd rather paint," she points out.

Mr. Miss Russell Becomes Bride Of Arthur Rhodes

Presbyterian Church Scene Of Marriage

Double-Ring Ceremony Performed By Candlelight
After Impressive Nuptial Concert

The wedding of Miss Christine Russell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Russell of Winnsboro, and Mr. Arthur Lewis Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis Rhodes, Sr., of Waterproof, was solemnized Saturday, July 30 at 9 o'clock in the evening at the Presbyterian church in Winnsboro with Rev. Kenneth Stewart of Rayville performing the double-ring ceremony.

Luxuriant ferns and candles in seven-branched candelabra formed a dignified background for the white floor standards of pink hydrangeas and vases of pink radiance roses. The ceremony was performed by candlelight.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Walter Woods, pianist, and Mrs. C. R. Adams, soloist. Mrs. Adams sang "I Love You Truly" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told." The bridal party entered to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," by Wagner, and during the ceremony "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" was played. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for the recessional.

Miss Fay Louise Rhodes, sister of the groom, wearing a becoming model of black and white, served as maid of honor.

Miss Mary Lou Porter of Gilbert, in navy blue, and Miss Mary Ellis Jones of Arcadia, in black and white, served as bridesmaids.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an advanced full black ensemble with white accessories. Her off-the-face hair was of black. She wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Rhodes had as his best man his brother, Mr. Abe Rhodes of Waterproof. The ushers were Mr. C. R. Adams, Mr. W. M. Kincaid and Mr. Tillman Crutchfield.

Mrs. Rhodes is a graduate of Louisiana Tech at Ruston. For the past two years she has been teaching in the Oak Grove school in Franklin parish.

Mr. Rhodes is associated with the Louisiana Cooperative association and is located in Winnsboro, where the young couple will make their home.

Mr. Edward Seymour and Mr. Raoul Mouton returned home last week from a motor trip to California, visiting points of interest en route. They visited in Los Angeles and Hollywood and en route to San Francisco spent a few days in Carmel-by-the-Sea, where they enjoyed golfing at the famous links overlooking the Pacific.

Mrs. Charles Hughes completed a month's visit in the home of her brother, Mr. C. W. Wallace, and Mrs. Wallace on Island drive, and returned to her home in Wichita Falls Saturday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Wallace, who will spend the month of August with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sholars and granddaughter, Sachie Cooper, have left the dude ranch near Santa Fe, where they were guests for several weeks, and are now touring the west en route to California.

Mrs. Lawrence Mullin and little daughter of New Orleans, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Mullin, have returned home.

Mrs. Sholars Oldest Graduate Of College

Monroe Woman Honored At Last Commencement
Whitworth Will Ever Hold

More than half a century ago, 66 years to be exact, Miss Carolyn Bell Standifer, now Mrs. D. M. Sholars of this city, left her home in Old Trenton for Brookhaven, Miss., to attend the Whitworth college. She was graduated from this cultural institution of learning in 1874 and returned last June to attend the last commencement ever to be held. Henceforth it will cease to function as a separate unit and will be merged with Millsaps college. At this time Mrs. Sholars was introduced as the oldest living graduate and occupied a seat of honor on the stage where other alumni were seated with the speakers of the day. Mrs. Sholars displayed at this time an album dating back to the day of graduation from Whitworth in 1874. It was during the regime of Dr. H. F. Johnson and contained one of his characteristic messages. Buried deep in Mrs. Sholars' heart is a great love for this historic old college. So steadfast is this love she returned time and time again for homecoming week to mingle with other graduates who looked forward every year to this period of happy reminiscing. Lifting the veil that separates today from yesterday, Mrs. Sholars recalled the Whitworth of old. The fine arts and especially music flourished in those days and the key of life was found in the interpretation of the Bible. Gentleness, self-restraint, unselfishness and courtesy were a part of the teachings. Mrs. Sholars' first visit to Whitworth after graduation was in 1874. She felt like a stranger in a strange land. Gone were the wooden buildings and the high board fence that shut out the outside world. Towering trees, half a century old, shaded the far-flung campus and students in smart sports attire walked to and fro to their classes in direct contrast to the students of 1874 who were severe calico dresses. Margaret Hall, where students studied with the aid of coal oil lamps and practiced their calligraphy, had been modernized beyond recognition. Whitworth college lived gloriously and was one of the first institutions to confer a degree upon a woman. All over the country are scattered honorable, upright splendid types of women like Mrs. Sholars who, having graduated from Whitworth, regret deeply the inglorious ending.

Miss Eleanor Hodge Of Rayville Honored

Mrs. Earle And Mrs. Richardson Entertain At Bridge-Dinner For Bride-Elect

Mrs. C. W. Earle and her daughter, Mrs. Lasley Richardson, entertained Thursday with a bridge-dinner complimentary to Miss Eleanor Hodge of Rayville. This delightful affair took place at their lovely home on Clear Lake, beautifully decorated with bowls and vases of pink roses, blue salvia, and geranium. After the guests arrived, the hostesses presented corsages to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Tobin R. Hodge.

Bridge was played, during which refreshing drinks and mints in designs of wedding rings and hearts were served. The hostesses presented the honoree with a knife and fork in her chosen pattern of silver. High score prize, a silver bell, was won by Mrs. Leroy Francis. Consolation, a blue bubble bowl filled with sweetheart roses, was won by Miss Sara Anita Cook.

After the games, the guests were invited into the cool and spacious dining room for delicious barbecued chicken dinner. The table was adorned with roses and white veronica, flanked by white tapers in low silver candle sticks. The following guests were present: Misses Eleanor Hodge, Florence Jane Morley, Sara Anita Cook, Gloria Hodge, Helen Earle, Louise O'Neal, Mrs. Tobin R. Hodge, Mrs. Warren Kelly, Jr., Mrs. Leroy Francis, Mrs. Sam Guess of Vicksburg, and Mrs. Williamson Pipes of Collinston.

A delightful dinner party was given by Miss Helen Earle in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Earle on Clear Lake complementing Miss Virginia Crekmore and Miss Dottie Ann Mays, the guest of Miss Helen Morgan, of Rayville.

The guests enjoyed boating and playing ping pong before dinner. Roses from Mrs. Earle's garden were massed in the reception suite and formed a beautiful centerpiece for the dinner table.

The guests included: Miss Virginia Crekmore and Miss Dottie Mays, of Fort Smith, Ark., and Miss Helen Morgan, of Rayville. Also present were Mrs. Lasley Richardson, of Rayville.

Tullos

The regular monthly business meeting of the Tullos Methodist Missionary society was held at the church. After singing "Jesus Calls Us," and prayer led by Mrs. Herbert DePriest, Mrs. Hal DePriest read Cor. 2:19-23. After singing "Sweet Hour of Prayer" the meeting was closed with prayer led by Mrs. E. R. Brewer. Members present were Mrs. Roy Nugent, Mrs. Glen Tyson, Fern Benson, Mrs. E. O. Brown, Mrs. E. R. Brewer, Mrs. H. E. Mayes, Mrs. Karl Thompson, Mrs. Hal DePriest, Mrs. Herbert DePriest, Mrs. C. E. Coleman and Mrs. W. H. Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Fields and little daughter, Jo Marlene, left for a visit with the former's brother, Felder Fields and Mrs. in Gibeland.

Friends of Travis Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown, will be glad to know that he is rapidly improving after undergoing an appendectomy at a clinic in Alexandria.

barbecue dinners the others night. The guests of honor, the Henry Noffs of Portland, Ark., thought nothing of motoring 13 miles or more to all with their hosts in the beautiful garden spot where an atmosphere of conviviality always exists on such occasions.

Hazel Mitchell is taking time off from badminton, in which she excels, to have her passport picture made, to be vaccinated, to assemble a wardrobe for skiing and skating and use on ship board. She is sailing on board the San Mateo with a group of L. S. U. students for France where they will study for a year at the University of Grenoble. Their schedules are mapped out far in advance. Even now they know that they will spend Christmas at a house party in a chateau high in the Swiss Alps, famous for winter sports. They will make a tour of Italy at Easter time and will listen to the monastery bells of Rome on Easter morn. Although the San Mateo is a freighter, this interesting little group of students will have the run of the ship and enjoy all the advantages associated with a private yacht. Landing at Havre, they will be met by Elizabeth Clemenot, of the Franco-English union, who will escort them on a week's tour of Paris.

Of course you read Ann Platt's interesting letter last week. Another charming letter arrived yesterday, containing the most amazing news. When she and members of her party walked into a famous casino in Interlaken late one evening, imagine their surprise when they found the Louisiana State university orchestra giving a concert. Needless to say they all fell on each other's necks. Let Ann tell you in her own words about Italy and Switzerland:

"Of all the places we've been that I hated to leave, I believe Florence was the hardest to tear ourselves away from. We spent our first day with an excellent guide in the art galleries, but were all of us just dying to get out and wander the streets on our own. This, we did, the second day, and had a perfectly grand time in the shops. Every door on every street was the entrance to a shop, and it was hard not to go in every one. All the streets were narrow and the shops small and close together. Florence seemed more like a medieval city than any place we've visited yet. And full of more things I had heard about or read about: the famous Ghiberti doors to the baptistry; the marvelously built dome of the cathedral; and so many of the paintings the reproductions of which I've seen so often at home; the fascinating Ponte Vecchio, or old bridge, with its little shops lining each side just like a street; the famous Fra Angelico angels; and the originals of the much-copied Della Robbia bambino. I'd like to spend months there, and really know the place.

"Maybe it was by comparison to Florence, but whatever it was, Venice, our next stop, was to me the least attractive of all the towns in Italy that we visited. The buildings were all so old and musty and dirty and none of the canals at all romantic-looking except the Grand canal. It was fun, though, strolling around the square of St. Mark's, where the pigeons were so tame they actually brushed your face flying by and lit on your head! As soon as we got to our hotel, we got out our bathing suits and went out by boat to the Lido—just as ultra-ultra as I had expected and the water was marvelously clear. That night we went for a gondola ride; as luck would have it, there was a full moon, and it was really lovely, with the gondoliers singing and the colored lanterns on some of the gondolas.

"None of us hated to leave Venice very much, and we were all very happy to get into Switzerland. Our first stop was Lugano, where we spent two nights and one wonderful, lazy day resting up in the clear mountain air and warm sun, with the most unbelievable views on every side. We're all sold on this country. Everything seems so clean and wholesome, we didn't even mind the bitter cold ride through the mountains from Lugano to Interlaken. The amazing thing was that from the window of our bus, in which we sat huddled in our sweaters and suits and topcoats, we saw hundreds of bicyclists in short pants and shirt sleeves! It made us twice as cold to look at them.

"A very nice surprise awaited me in Interlaken. We arrived there at about five o'clock in the afternoon, went window shopping for a while, then after an impromptu birthday party for Lowena Lee, one of the Memphis girls, we went to the casino (every town has one). And who should be giving a concert there but the Louisiana State university orchestra! I knew they were touring Europe, but had forgotten about it, and I was glad to see them? Of course, I knew no one in the band, they all having come to school after my time; but I talked with Dr. Stophor, who conducted the tour, and was delighted to see again Daird, his son, whom I had taught in the demonstration high school in Baton Rouge. You just can't imagine what it felt like to meet old friends—at least they seem to be your very oldest and best friends when you meet them this far from home!

"Today we shopped—and bought very little. The town is full of nothing but watches and wood carving and linen; we're saving up for Lucerne, where we're told the prices are much more attractive. Interlaken being more a resort town, it's so much nicer traveling in buses than on the train, and we go from here to Lucerne that way this afternoon.

Youthful Visitors In City Are Entertained

Caroline Keplinger And Tot Ellis From New Orleans Center Of Several Social Events

Heat and humidity are two words unknown to youth. The summer days were made for their pleasure and a soaring thermometer is of little consequence.

Last week was a gala one, socially, for a few members of the sub-deb set with two lovely visitors from New Orleans, Caroline Keplinger and Tot Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, formerly of Monroe, inspiring a whirl of activities.

Tot Ellis, who visited Martha Chambers, and Caroline, who visited her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Sholars, were the guests of honor at a supper party last Sunday night with Mrs. Satchie Coor the hostess. On Monday they enjoyed a "stunt" party with Martha Chambers the hostess. Eleven o'clock brunch on Wednesday with Bessie Hughes as hostess was a charming compliment followed by a theater party with Alma Jean Lingquist as hostess.

Pauline Beard entertained with a charming tea Thursday afternoon, and at 6 o'clock a dinner party on the Virginia hotel roof with Mrs. Thomas Sholars hostess, climaxed a day filled to overflowing with pleasure.

Clarice and Lee Slagle entertained at dinner at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Friday night. Saturday morning a swimming party at the Carl McHenry pool with Correllia McHenry the hostess, and a twilight garden fête with Dorothy Steen as hostess climaxed a never-to-be forgotten week of pleasure for this lovely coterie of sub-debs.

Chief reason people pass one door to patronize the Silverstein's store, is not because this busier place has better dresses, or coats in their case, or cheaper prices, but it lies in pleasant words and smiling eyes. The greatest difference, we believe is the treatment folks receive.

This little poem, which a good friend clipped and sent to us, pretty well expresses the way thousands of folks feel about Silverstein's Store. And it ties in with our slogan, which tells you that you must be entirely satisfied with every purchase you make here. If for any reason you are not entirely pleased, you alone are the judge! CHAPTER VIII

Joe saw, of course, the obvious little tricks she used to persuade him to make a second visit after that first one, a third after that, and a fourth all the while she practiced to flatter him and interest him. But who could mind? They were so obvious. When any child plies you with artful tricks and phrases, you are tickled and flattered and pretend to know nothing about it and give it what it wants. That was the way it was with Terry.

They had to go to wondering which might be true: did she innocently suppose she was fooling him right up to his face; or did she know as well as he that he was not fooled at all, but merely indulgent, and was she still producing her pathetic little bag of tricks nonetheless because in deep subtle wisdom she knew they were irresistible in their very transparency? He did not know the answer, and he watched her and wondered many, many times, and could never quite make her out entirely, for all her simple artlessness.

It was altogether unprecedented, and in no way resembling in the least the terms of the bargain Joe thought he had made with Terry, but it was there, unanswerable. She needed him. He had taken a job on himself, assumed a responsibility. If it weren't so downright serious, he'd probably rebel, on principle. And paradoxically, if it weren't at the same time so pleasant and beguiling and amusing, watching her excited and thrilled and apt and enjoying herself unbelievably over the trifling pleasures, he'd probably have drifted soon in sheer weariness of responsibility. He did not. He did not want to.

"You crazy kid!" he told her in marvel as he beheld her incoherent delight at the rush and roar of the giant roller coaster out at Merin park. "Weren't you ever on one of those things? Where you been all these years? How's the lunch, settled? Come on, we'll take a ride."

And they rode . . . and imagine Joe Murray riding on a roller coaster, with a child of a woman alongside, frightened to ecstasy and hanging on to him, clutching him, trying frantically to get into his very pocket in the mad journey! Joe did that, and loved it . . . and Joe himself couldn't imagine it for the life of him!

It was a queer, upsidodown existence. But it was something to do, something with significance and meaning. How it would all come out he had no idea. They were two equally lonely souls who found it convenient to pretend a great importance to each other, to combine in partnership against the almost irresistible pressure of life, and the ending was of no consequence beside the peace of the moment.

They went to Merin park several times that spring. They went for Sunday excursions on the river boats. They went to moving pictures and to cheap amusements and saw the circus and heard a band concert in Graham hall. They went to the dances at the political club to which the older Murphys cleaved. They rented a little car of nights and went out to Magnolia Gardens, which was a noisy little roadside on Fairmount turnpike where the orchestra played St. Louis Blues at frequent intervals because it so suited their peculiar talents and the prevailing mood.

You will be curious to know how they did all these things in the face of grim Malloys. Joe was curious himself. There had been a time, at first, they had set their faces against him rigidly, but he had ignored them, blandly if with frequent expressions of temper, and worn them down. When he was out with Terry, he stepped into the parlor with her before leaving her there, to afford them opportunity to ask questions if they desired—and to give them a pleasant smile and a kind of cool, daunting eye if they thought to try.

They did not try, much. He was not a haughty scum boy; there was nothing about him that they could not own to; he had a mind of his own, and he was obviously playing square with their granddaughter, whatever they thought of her own reliability.

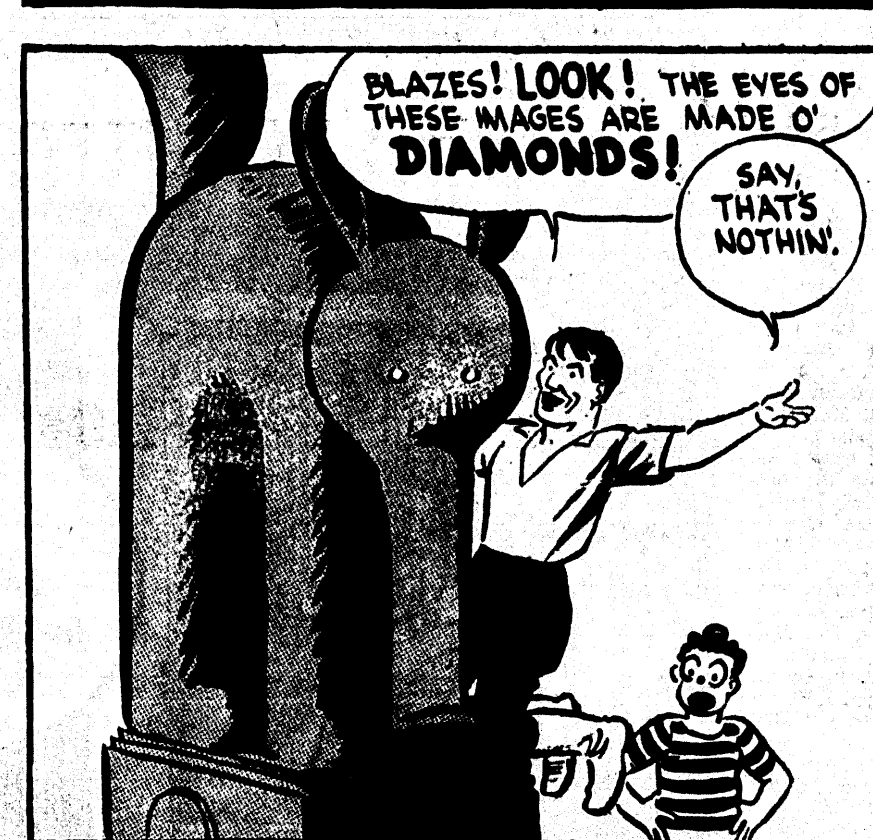

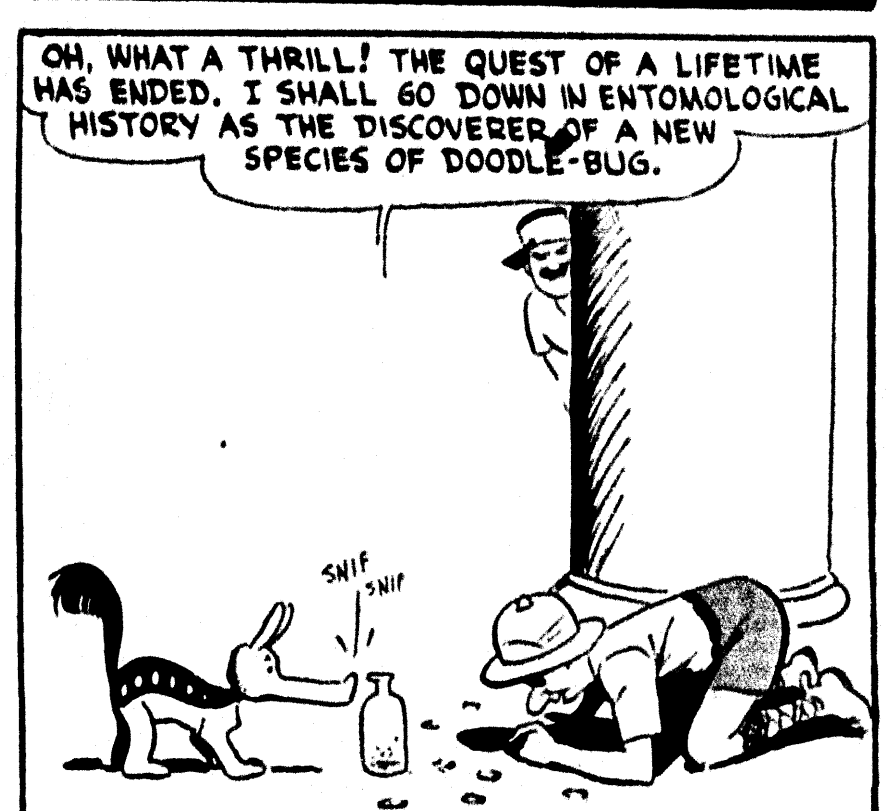

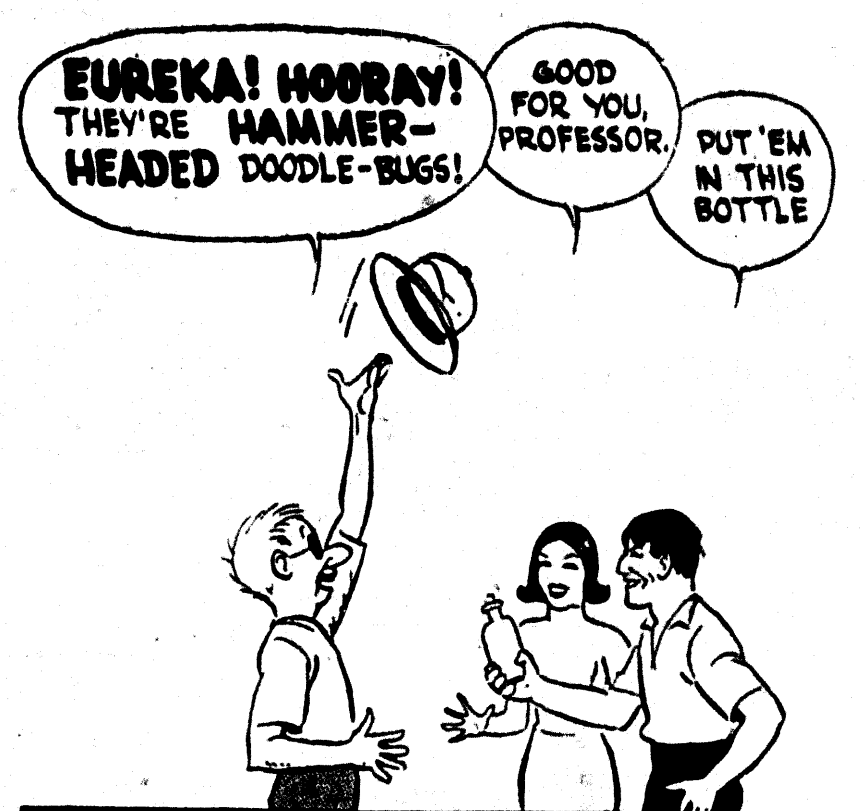

And then all at once they withdrew all opposition, scrutiny, even curiosity. They left the two of them alone, the door deliberately between them. They made no comment of any kind in Terry's hearing when he had gone. They were not approving; they were simply holding off, waiting. It was not like them. It came suddenly to Joe that they were furthering the arrangement . . . even to the extent of leaving him in undisturbed privacy for hours at a time with their unreliable and wayward granddaughter, in hopes . . . in hopes!

It was an infuriating thought. The meaning of that! They would be rid of her, and in a way that would justify them utterly. It was against nature—and yet there it was!

It caused a reaction in Joe Murray. It set him to thinking. A man begins to go about with a girl, and pretty soon people smile and take matters for granted, and first thing you know they are married, whatever they may have thought in the beginning. That was right enough. But here he was going about with a girl, and her family were thinking of marriage in their own twisted way. Other people probably drew their own conclusions as well . . .

His own people. He had long stopped talking about Terry at home. Terry had long stopped dropping in. There was a certain tension at home, but they were thinking, and he could feel it. They were like any family anywhere, jealous and particular. They did not think so much of Terry as a wife for him. With that family the best the kid had, you couldn't blame them. They wanted a fine, proud, beautiful girl for him, somebody with substance and importance and cleverness, who would at the same time adore him madly and manage him coolly and expertly, serving his money and running his home and mothering his babies. His, mind you! He could never make the grade with a girl like that, even if so miraculous a person did happen to want him. He might try. But he would fail. She would be too much like Helen. When he thought of falling in love again, he thought of himself such a fine, proud, beautiful wife, he only thought of Helen, and the other faded to nothingness.

And what would they have made of Helen, if he had brought her to them? They called her "Polack." Not now, but once they had. "Polack!" They knew nothing of the pitiful, endearing, in that word. They knew nothing of the beauty he had almost, almost possessed. They knew nothing about the happiness, the suffering that came after happiness, the quality and power of his dream. They did not know anything about him. He was alone, among friends, among kin, except for Terry. That was a strange thing. He was not in love with Terry. She did not stir him; he never felt brutal and tender with her, darkly, hungrily, as he had with Helen. He had even, in the total absence of all emotion, told Terry all about Helen. He was not in love with Terry. Yet she understood him.

"You must have loved her terribly, Joe," she told him, sweetly and solemnly. Terry was not at all effervescent and childishness. "I guess a man loves that way only once in his life—and only one man in a dozen even once, that way. It's something to be proud of and thankful for, even though it hurt you so. Because if it perfect and nothing can ever make the least mark on it. Don't you feel that?"

He did, in the end. But he had a thought, a difficult thought. Perfection was not for an everyday man in a workaday world. A man who has known perfection once is ready to die. There is nothing left. He told her that, gropingly.

"Oh, but there is!" she insisted. She seemed for an instant to lift her bright eyes up to an ever shining vision. "There's so much left. I've never had anything, but I always kept thinking of all I was going to have some day. Don't you ever think of homes all your own, where everybody and everything there is all yours and you can love them and nobody to stop you? Besides all your own . . ." She looked at him. "Think of that!" she said.

He thought. Those things were lovely. But they were not real. They were only scenery on a stage from which a presence was gone and where a voice was stilled.

"I don't know," he said. "It'll all work out. But I quit thinking about things, any kind of things, a long time ago."

She laid her face close to his, her cheek touching his, her hand stroked his face gently. "Poor darling," she whispered to him.

No, he was not alone.

BAPTIST CHILDREN GO TO BARBECUE AT TALLULAH

Twenty-five of the children from the Louisiana Baptist home spent part of the day Saturday in Tallulah as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Byrum, who entertained with a picnic and barbecue. Ray, and Mrs. L. A. Matern were in charge of the party.

Boy Scout troop No. 35, Carl Brown scoutmaster, which group is sponsored by the Monroe Kiwanis club, left by bus Saturday for two weeks outing in the Ozarks. They will camp at Hot Springs and other places in the mountains.

A number of the staff of the home are planning to spend the next several weeks at the Dry Creek Baptist encampment in south Louisiana.

Miss Reba Hayes, of the staff of the home, will leave Monday for Alexandria and vicinity where she will spend a short vacation.

VISIT IN MISSOURI

George D. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, left Saturday with his family for Lake Taneycomo, Mo., where he will spend the next two weeks of his vacation. Most of his time will be spent at Hollister and nearby towns where the Hollands will take a cottage.

ALABAMA PRESBYTERIAN CEMETERY DEDICATED

CHOUDRANT, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Judge Robert O'Neal of Shreveport was the principal speaker at the dedication of the new addition to the Alabama Presbyterian church cemetery at Sibley. In his address, Judge O'Neal paid a tribute to the men of the church for their work in making the new addition to the cemetery possible.

Rev. D. L. O'Neal of Bastrop, Bay, Stanford Parnell of Union Springs, Ala., and others took part in the exercises.

NEW BUSES ARE DUE HERE SOON

Operators Leave For Michigan To Drive Machines Back To Monroe

Announcement was made Saturday by Walter B. Mangham, superintendent of the municipal street railway, that Walter Beal, foreman at the street car barn on Lee avenue, and Harold Elliott, his assistant, are leaving at once for Lansing, Mich., by train to return with buses that are being prepared there for service in Monroe. Three additional men of the street railway system will leave Monday for Lansing.

It is expected that the five new Reo buses, purchased for the street railway here, will be completed and ready to be turned over to representatives of the local department on or about August 10. They will then drive them to Monroe where they are expected to arrive about August 15.

They will be placed in service as soon as possible thereafter, stated Mr. Mangham, and will take the place of the present Lee avenue trolley line.

The entire south side schedule will be revised so as to afford a maximum convenience to users of buses, Mr. Mangham said. It is possible that one line may run down South Grand street and out Lover's lane, while another may operate on Lee avenue similarly to the present trolley line, however this is subject to later decision that may be made but Mr. Mangham assures that the public will be given the best possible service.

GEORGE WELCH ADMITTED TO EDUCATORS' GROUP

George W. Welch, Crosley school principal, was one of 32 advanced students at Louisiana State university, including a large group of high school principals and parish superintendents, who were initiated into Phi Delta Kappa, national professional fraternity for educators, when the 49th chapter of the organization was installed on the university campus the past week.

This educational organization was founded in 1906 at the University of Indiana and it has grown so that at this time it numbers 23,500 members. The purpose of the fraternity in general terms is "To project the work of the schools in preparing men for professional careers in the field of education into the lives of such men after they have completed their professional training."

STUDENT LEADERS AT STATE NORMAL

These student leaders at the Louisiana State Normal college, Natchitoches, will begin their terms of office as presidents of honorary fraternities at the beginning of the fall term of the State Teachers' college on September 12. The new heads of the honorary groups are, top, left to right: Corinne Cook, Pineville, Alpha Phi Gamma, journalism; Pat Murphy, Natchitoches, Alpha Psi Omega, dramatics; Mary Wimberly, Ringgold, Phi Alpha Theta, history. Bottom row: Mary Catherine Williams, Boyce, Kappa Delta Pi, education; Lois Turner, Minden, Sigma Pi Rho, Latin; E. D. Perkins, Jr., Natchitoches, Lambda Delta Lambda, science; Mary Belle Statton, Mandeville, Pi Delta Epsilon, biology.

RODEO WILL BE GIVEN AT FAIR

Grandstand Being Removed From McGuire Park To Exhibition Grounds

The Ouachita Valley Fair association has just signed up for a rodeo attraction at the exhibition to be held in October. It was stated Saturday by John Birdsong, manager of the fair.

The old rodeo grandstand in McGuire park has been razed and the material has been removed to the fairgrounds, where it will be erected and used for a new grandstand. It will be so built that it can be used not only for rodeos but also as a grandstand for baseball games and other athletic attractions. It will be completed in time for the fair this fall.

A good collection of bucking horses, wild steers and other rodeo stock will be assembled and skilled operators will be in readiness for the exhibition, it is assured.

Tentative plans call for both day and night rodeos. West Monroe audiences have been always appreciative of this kind of entertainment and as none have been given for several years, it is expected that they will be eager to attend.

ASK BIDS FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Five Negro School Houses Are Proposed For Ouachita Parish

Plans for five new school buildings have been prepared by H. H. Land, local architect, for the Ouachita parish school board for the use of negro pupils. They will be located in wards one, three, four, six and seven. Estimated cost will be approximately $20,000. Bids are being asked which will be opened in the offices of the parish school board August 30 at 10 a. m.

The structures will be of frame and one story in height, according to plans drawn.

The bids can be submitted on each of the five buildings or on the five as a whole.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Plans and specifications can be inspected at the offices of H. H. Land in the Ouachita Bank building.

PWA FUNDS GRANTED FOR UNION PARISH BUILDING

Congressman Newt V. Mills received a telegram Saturday morning from H. A. Gray, assistant administrator of PWA in Washington, D. C., stating that an allocation of funds has been granted for $12,285 for the construction of an auditorium-gymnasium at Linville in Union parish.

This is one of the projects for which a local architect had prepared plans and specifications.

RITES HELD FOR BELOVED TEACHER

Funeral Services Conducted For Miss Lida Benton On Saturday

A large number of persons, prominent in educational circles of Monroe and elsewhere in north Louisiana, attended the funeral of Miss Lida St. Clair Benton, prominent local educator and member of a pioneer family, who died at the home of Mrs. O. W. Douglas, 224 South Riverfront street in West Monroe, Friday at 2:30 p. m.

The services were held at Grace Episcopal church, Saturday at 10 a. m., with the rector, Rev. Edward Farren Hayward, officiating. The interment took place in the old family cemetery on the Limerick plantation which adjoins the present Sherrouse home on DeSiard road.

Palbearers were Harry Oliver, Morris Haas, Fred F. Millsaps, E. T. Lamkin, Warren Taylor, Ned Leigh, Judge David I. Garrett, and Milling Bernstein, all former pupils of Miss Benton.

Miss Benton was the daughter of a veteran of the War Between the States, Colonel Thomas O. Benton, and her mother was Thankful Wilson Benton. He was a prominent citizen and for years was one of the best known residents of this section of the state.

Miss Benton, after receiving a liberal education, began to teach in the old female academy in Monroe, and when it was demolished to make way for the Monroe City High school building, she continued to teach in that school.

She taught up to the time that the new Neville High school was built, and ended her public career as teacher by acting as librarian at the Central Grammar school until she was forced to relinquish her duties through ill health. For the past few years she has lived a life of quiet retirement.

The closest surviving relatives are a niece and nephew, Mrs. Thankful Perreault and Thomas Benton Sample, both residing in San Francisco, Calif. Relatives in Louisiana are Paul Fudicker, a cousin, of Monroe; and Robert Wilson Williams and Mrs. Annie Hanna, cousins, of Shreveport.

R. A. DAIMWOOD RETURNS FROM SISTER'S FUNERAL

R. A. Daimwood has just returned from Memphis, Tenn., where he was summoned because of the death of his sister, Miss Bess Daimwood, dietitian at one of the schools in that city, who died Wednesday morning following an operation.

Miss Daimwood had taught in the city schools of Memphis 19 years and was one of three sisters, all of whom were connected with schools of that city.

She was a native of Columbia, Tenn., and was educated at Milligan college, Johnson City, Tenn., and the state teachers' college in Memphis, and had also taken post-graduate studies in Columbia university in New York.

SCHOOL BONDS SOLD AT RUSTON

Sale Paves Way Financially For Construction Of New High School

RUSTON, La., Aug. 6.—(Special)—Through the sale here Friday of $200,000 worth of the $225,000 bond issue recently authorized by voters in the Ruston school district No. 1, the Lincoln parish school board paved the way financially for the construction of a new high school and domestic science building at Ruston.

The matter of the location of the new school building, however, is a problem to be settled in a special election set for Friday, August 12.

The $200,000 in bonds were purchased by Barrow, Leary and Company of Shreveport, at an interest rate of three and three-fourths per cent for $15,000 and four per cent for $185,000. It was reported from the office of H. L. Campbell, superintendent of schools. The bid on the $185,000 in bonds included a premium of $485, with no premium being specified on the remainder of the purchase.

Although a total of $225,000 in bonds has been approved by the voters, the selling of the entire issue was not necessary. The board already has on deposit here a sum of $90,000, resulting from a previous bond issue, and a grant from the PWA will complete the funds necessary for the school project, which is estimated to cost about $480,000, it is said.

Since the grounds of the present high school are inadequate to meet requirements for the new school project, a new site for the buildings must be selected. The question of the location has resulted in heated discussion among some of the school patrons in the school district, a consequence which prompted the school board to call the special election to decide the matter.

TARZAN'S DOOM

INTO THE HILLS DASHED THE BANDITS WITH THEIR PRISONERS: TARZAN, THE EMPEROR, AND HIS DAUGHTER.

AND FROM THEIR ISOLATED LAIR, THE CHIEFTAIN DISPATCHED A NOTE DEMANDING RANSOM FOR SUN TAI AND LULING.

BUT FOR THE MIGHTY TARZAN HE HAD OTHER PLANS. "I WILL MAKE YOU MY LIEUTENANT," HE OFFERED.

THE APE-MAN ANSWERED DEFIANTLY: "I FIGHT AGAINST NOT WITH SUCH CUTTHROATS AS YOU."

THE CHIEFTAIN FLEW INTO A RAGE. IF TARZAN WAS NOT TO BE AN ALLY, HE MUST NOT BE A FOE. "YOUR HEAD WILL ROLL!" CHANG-LOON STORMED. THEN HE TURNED TO HIS MINIONS. "TO THE BLOCK WITH HIM!"

THE OUTLAWS SEIZED TARZAN AND BORE HIM TO THE PLACE OF EXECUTION.

NO PLEA, NO WORD OF COMPLAINT PASSED HIS LIPS AS HE WAS BOUND TO STAKES, HIS NECK ON THE FATAL BLOCK.

THEN SUN TAI SPOKE: "SPARE THE STRANGER. THE IMPERIAL TREASURY WILL PAY WHAT RANSOM YOU DEMAND."

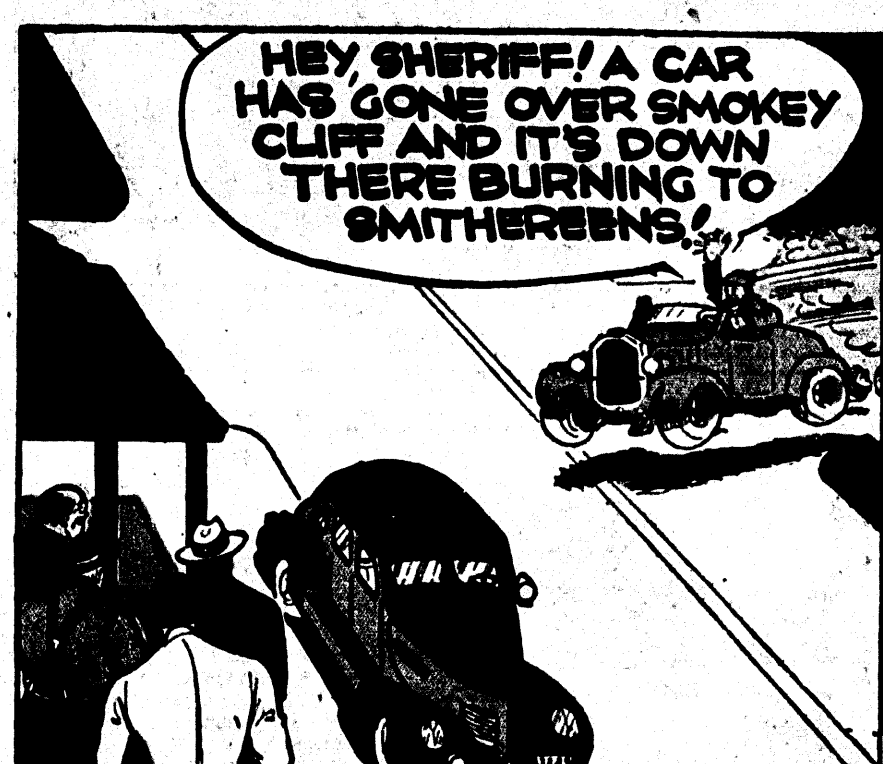

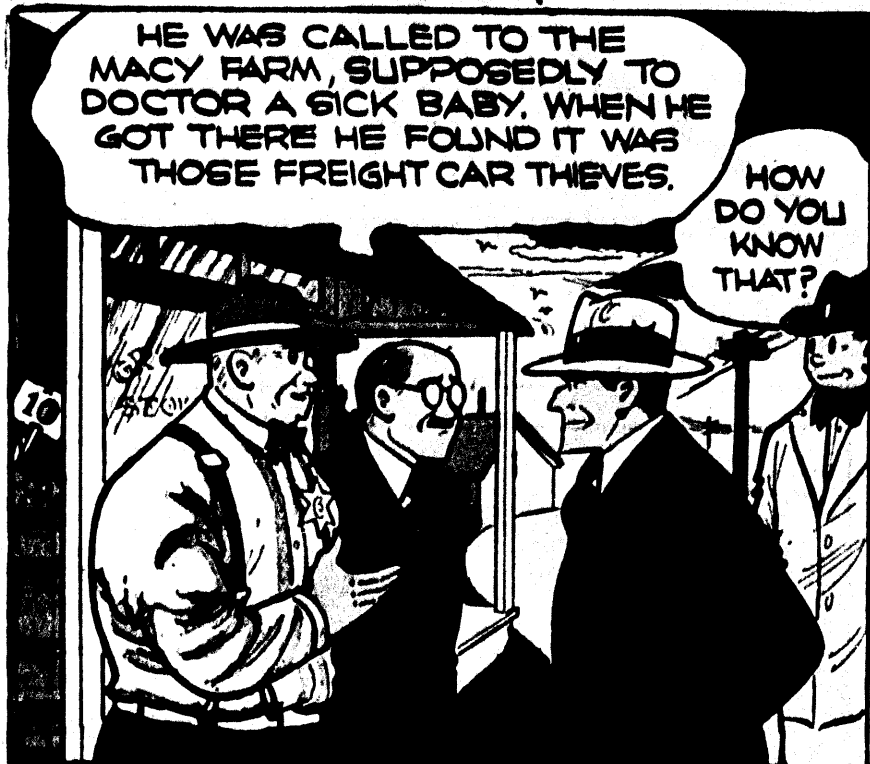

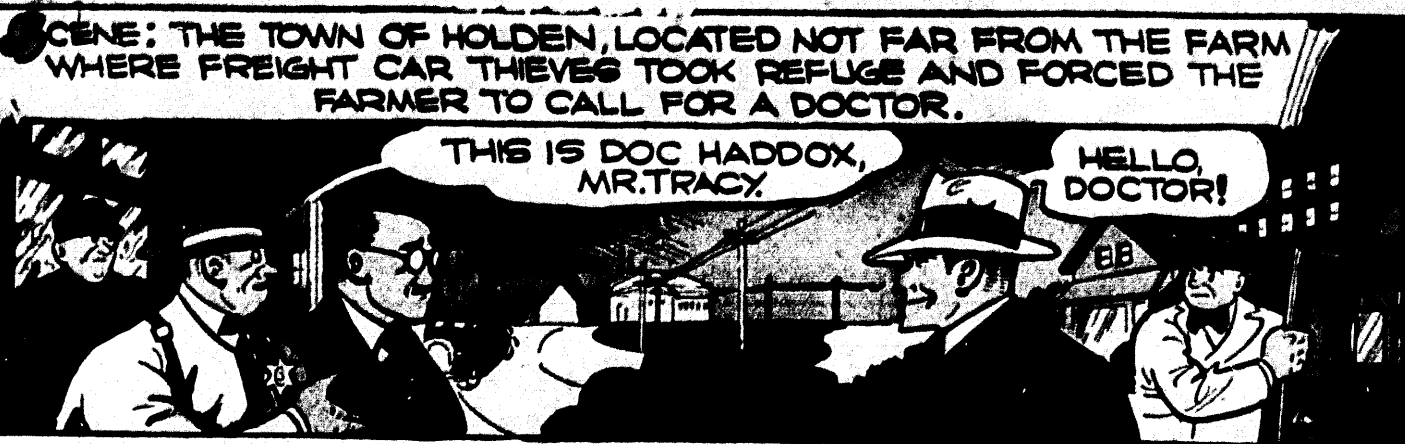

CHANG-LOON SHOOK HIS HEAD. TARZAN WAS TOO DANGEROUS TO BE ALLOWED TO LIVE.

SO HE STRODE GRIMLY TO THE EXECUTION BLOCK AND RAISED HIS MAMMOTH SWORD!
